Old Glory

Old Glory! Long may she wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave,
Men fought for it; men died for it;
Who isn't thrilled by the might and sight of it?

There are many flags in many lands,
There are flags of every hue,
But there is no flag, however grand,
Like our own "Red, White and Blue."

She's up there — Old Glory — how bright the stars stream!
And the stripes like red signals of liberty gleam!
And we dare for her — living, or dream the last dream,
'Neath the flag of our country forever.

So God bless our star-gemmed banner;
Shake its folds out to the breeze,
From church, from school, from house-top,
O'er the city, over the seas.

Foreword

Seconds — minutes — hours — days — weeks — months — years — four years, and our college days are gone.

As the years pass we will have a yearning to look backward and reminisce on the incidents that have passed from existence and to remember our college days which are said to be our happiest times. It is to fulfill this yearning that the Milestone has been created, and to pass on from generation to generation to be treasured and cherished.

A college yearbook should be the stage upon which the scenes of our memories and dreams are re-enacted. With this belief in mind, the Milestone for the year 1949 has been born. The strands of humor, pathos and intrigue which fill our college years have been woven together to form a plot far surpassing that of any playwright's pen. As with precious metals, the seemingly monotonous everyday occurrences and humdrum activities of school life, take on added luster with the passage of time. This Milestone has recorded and documented these experiences so that we may remember, and in remembering, learn again. Learn again to live, explore, always learning, and constantly striving to discover the meaning of life, weighing everything carefully, discarding bad, retaining good. The resulting plot forms a pattern of living which we shall follow the rest of our lives.

So, as a clock has ticked away the minutes to be recorded in the book of time, the Milestone staff of 1949 has endeavored to catch the minutes in the flight of time and record them for you. As the players of the past pass in revue upon this stage, the pages of our Milestone, may we look back with fondness and thankfulness in our hearts on these memorable years . . .

DEDICATION

Jack Schouten – – the Honorable, Friendly, Helpful Person

DEDICATION

Jack, the Friend.

Jack, the Coach.

Sooner or later during the term of study on Hope's campus, all students enter the warm sphere of comradeship created by a man whose sincere friendliness and genial nature has long endeared him to students and faculty alike. For Jack Schouten is, and has been at the same time, father, brother, and friend to all.

It was in the early nineteen twenties that Jack first came to be recognized as the "father of Hope College athletics." He has held that distinction through the years until Hope College athletics and Jack Schouten have become synonymous.

When athletics was in its infancy at Hope, Jack generously volunteered his services to assist in fulfilling the increasing demand for a full time athletic program. It was Jack as a trainer, who in those first years of athletic competition became known as the healer of all ailments, physical and otherwise. His responsive nature, ready smile, and hearty greeting combined to make him loved and revered.

From trainer to coach was a mere transferring of titles, for he had long evinced great interest in coaching. Our first official coach, Jack took over duties in football, basketball, baseball and track.

It was Jack who instigated physical training programs for girls and made good sportsmanship and clean living by-words. A firm believer in both, Jack has long advocated the theory that a good athlete will make a good citizen. A former athlete himself, Jack knows the value of living right, not only in athletics, but in all things, and daily he strives to be a living example of this.

Today, with one of the largest enrollments in Hope's history, and a greatly expanded athletic program, Jack still finds time for making the life of a student on Hope's campus a fuller one. As Director of Physical Education, trainer, and coach of the baseball squad, Jack finds ample opportunity to make friends and influence the lives of all with whom he comes in contact.

Emerson once wrote, "In order to have a friend, you must first be one." For over thirty years, Jack Schouten has lived and practiced this creed. It is with a feeling of affection and pride, that this Milestone for the year 1949 is dedicated to him.

Jack, the Helper.

Jack, the Trainer.

DR. IRWIN J. LUBBERS

President of Hope College

This June will mark the fourth year that Dr. Lubbers has been at the helm of Hope College. In some respects these have been the most treacherous years in the history of the college because of the increased enrollment and the numerous problems that have arisen out of this situation. As usual, when faced with such problems, Dr. Lubbers utilizes his wisdom, ingenuity, and prayer to discover suitable solutions. Thus he is able to lead the college and still retain its standards and ideals.

Last fall Dr. Lubbers had the distinct honor of attending the inaugural services of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower when he became President of Columbia University. By having Hope College represented at events of this nature, the country will gradually realize the influence that a church sponsored college, such as Hope, can have on the world. Also, information related at Hope from such events tends to make the students and faculty of Hope College more conscious of the problems in the world and what the consequences of these will be if agreements are not reached. Dr. Lubbers has made numerous trips and has attended many important conferences in order to represent Hope College and the ideals for which it stands.

Dr. Lubbers' faithful service to Hope College is recognized and deeply appreciated by the entire student body, faculty, and alumni. His guidance and wisdom have encouraged many on the long and often discouraging path to higher learning. He has implanted in many the desire for higher goals, values, and purposes in life. We pray that God may watch over our President in the future years of guiding and steering the course of Hope College.

President of the Board of Trustees

DR. JOHN A. DYKSTRA

Dr. John A. Dykstra, President of the Board of Trustees, resides in Grand Rapids, Michigan. He is pastor of the Central Reformed Church, which is the oldest Reformed Church in the state of Michigan. Dr. Dykstra is active in many organizations and he is recognized by the ingenuity and endless energy with which he masters the tasks set before him.

The Board of Trustees is the governing body of Hope College and consists of forty-two members, among them laymen, laywomen, and ministers. The members are selected for a term of six years.

At one of the recent meetings, which was held on Hope's campus November 2 and 3, 1948, the Board of Trustees discussed and approved various resolutions. One of the most important was the approval of plans for Hope's new women's dormitory.

Another resolution approved by the Board of Trustees is a system for granting honorary degrees. The procedure for granting the degrees will be as follows: a committee will recommend nominees to the Board at the fall meeting; the nomination must be in writing and signed by the Trustee making the recommendation; voting for nomination shall be by ballot, and a public statement will then be made of the reasons for which the degree is to be given. Possible honorary degees are L.L.D., D.D., Litt. D., and D.Sc.

Under the able direction of Dr. Dykstra, the Board constantly keeps the standard "Faith of Our Fathers" before them when making decisions as the governing body of Hope College.

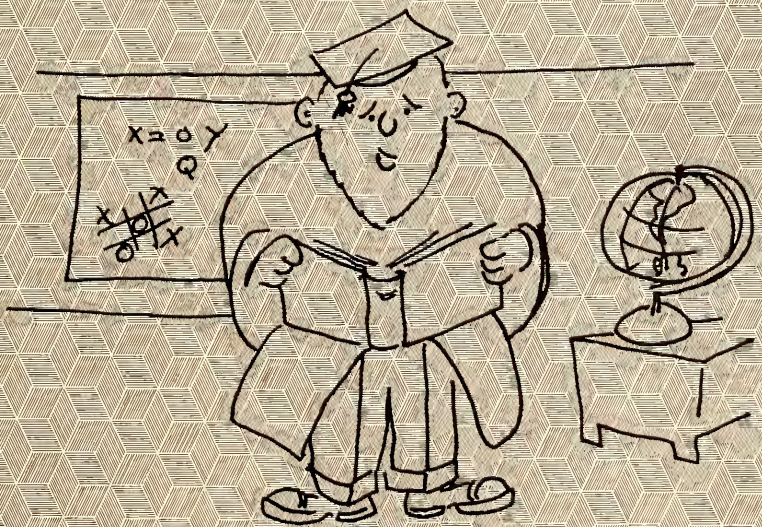
BUSINESS & ADMINISTRATION

FACULTY



Administration . . .

The Dean of the Faculty, Dr. John W. Hollenbach, through the office of Dean of the College, coordinates the various courses, checks the preparation of the class schedule, prepares the exam schedule, makes necessary changes in the college catalogue, checks class absences, supervises publication of the daily bulletin, and works with the Educational Policies Committee.

Miss Emma Reeverts, Dean of Women, besides her teaching role is advisor to the Alcor Society, the Women's Activities League, Pan Hellenic Board, and the Women's House Board. Dean Reeverts also acts as personal supervisor to all women students on or off the Campus.

As Dean of Men, Dean Hinga has charge of the housing of the men students on campus as well as acting as advisor in helping solve their problems, be they scholastic, disciplinary, or social.

Rev. Hinkamp in his capacity as Registrar of the College handles the records of all students on campus. Veterans', foreign students', and regular students' complete records are filed. Diplomas and commencement arrangements are also in the hands of the Registrar.

The Director of Admissions, Prof. Albert Timmer, reviews applications of prospective Hope students, sends out catalogues and letters informing students of college entrance requirements, and decides the acceptance of students.

Dr. Bruce Raymond, general Business Manager, is in charge of all college purchasing and general maintenance work.

The college Treasurer, Mr. Henry Steffens, disburses the funds, keeps the books, and handles billing and investments made by the school.

Mr. Geerlings, Director of Hope's Publicity keeps the activities of the campus well publicized through school, local, and home-town papers.

The Director of the Dining Halls, Mr. Rein Visscher, handles the purchasing of all food for the school and is in charge of the Temple and Voorhees dining rooms and kitchens.

Mrs. Stryker, Associate Director of Alumni, handles all information pertaining to former students of Hope.

Dr. Leenhouts, the campus physician, and Miss Jennie Spoelstra, campus nurse, play an important part in keeping the student body healthy and on their toes.

Faculty . . .

Hope College has a faculty of which every Hopeite should be proud. Academically, Hope College seeks to build up a faculty which will rank with the best in the academic world in scholarship and ability. These words were taken from "The Aims of Hope College", but we students know that there is more to it than just the letters after their names; it's their friendliness, their helpfulness, their encouragement, and their Christian attitude which makes Hope, "a home away from home" for us.

It would be almost impossible for most students to imagine a single day when they were not under the direct or indirect influence of the faculty members. They, through their talents and experiences from wide fields of learning, are laying foundations for our future. At times we have been discouraged in our studies, but we always find helpful guidance in our instructors. Certainly we owe a great deal to the group of faculty who have given so much of their time and energy in not only instructing us, but in meeting the other demands of an increased student body.

Even though Hope's enrollment has increased and greater responsibility has been placed on every member of the faculty, still, each student is given the opportunity to contact his faculty advisor and is always confident of receiving careful guidance, helpful aid, and friendly suggestions.

Secretaries . . .

Nor would we forget our very efficient and capable office personnel. The students of Hope College have come to know them and to appreciate their noble efforts.

The staff consists of twelve members at the present time. They are: Diana Anderson, Secretary to the Treasurer; Jean Brink, Switchboard Operator; Mrs. Leon Dykstra, Secretary to the Dean; Phyllis Engelsman, Secretary to the Business Manager; Mrs. Richard Flaherty, Secretary to the English Department; Mrs. Wm. Haak, Cashier; Helen Sander, Secretary to the President; Mrs. Inez Tellinghuizen, Secretary to the Registrar; Dena Walters, Secretary to the Director of Admissions.

These secretaries are always willing and ready to help. Their cheery smiles and understanding attitudes are deeply appreciated by faculty and students alike. We all know Milton's words: "They also serve who only stand and wait". So often this is true of the office personnel as they patiently wait on us and our needs. Yes, the secretaries of Hope College are also included in our big happy family. They contribute their part in attaining our goals. As we step along the stones of years and recall the memories of our Alma Mater, the office personnel shall also hold their place in our book of memories. They too have helped so much in making our stay here a pleasant one.

TRIBUTE

DR. EDWARD DIMNENT

After forty-nine years of self-sacrifice and devoted service to Hope College, Dr. Edward Dimnent retired from his position as the head of the Business Administration department, and as a professor on Hope's Campus.

The half-century Dr. Dimnent devoted to the college he loved, had seen many changes, and he was instrumental in inaugurating many of them. The college doubled in enrollment, and the financial status was greatly improved. Perhaps the greatest single achievement in those years was to act as the guiding hand in the building of the Hope Memorial Chapel. Its design and its awesome beauty were entirely the product of his imagination and intellect.

Honored and revered, Dr. Edward Dimnent is truly one of the great men of his generation. It is with a feeling of pride in being a part of the great tradition he has left behind, that we of the Milestone Staff of 1949, honor Dr. Edward Dimnent, distinguished President Emeritus of Hope College.

TRIBUTE

Rev. Albert Strabbing

Mrs. Frances Otte

The Milestone of 1949 wishes to pay tribute to Hope College's four oldest living graduates.

Hamilton, Michigan, is the home of the retired minister, Rev. Albert Strabbing, class of 1880. Before entering the ministry, Rev. Strabbing was a teacher in Forest Grove, Michigan. He is now ninety-two years old.

Mrs. Frances Otte, class of 1882, is now living in Holland, Michigan, after a long, but valuable term of service in the missionary field with her husband, the late John A. Otte. Mrs. Otte's father, the late Philip Phelps, was the first president of Hope College. Mrs. Otte is one of the first women graduates of Hope, and she is still active in social and religious affairs.

The year 1884 marks the graduation of Rev. Gerrit H. Hospers, now a resident of East Williamson, New York. Rev. Hospers served several Reformed Churches and he is also the author of various books, two of his favorites being "The Reformed Principle of Authority," and "The Second Advent From a Reformed Standpoint."

In 1886, Rev. B. J. Lammers graduated from our Alma Mater. Upon leaving Hope he went to New Brunswick Seminary. His first charge was in Iowa. At the present time, he is residing in Jamestown, Michigan.

These former Hope students are still active, and exemplify in their daily lives much of the Hope spirit which is prevalent on Campus today. The Milestone Staff of 1949 wishes to pay high tribute to these four oldest living graduates of Hope College. Truly they have crossed many and great Milestones in their lives.

RALPH R. CALDER
ARCHITECT
1212 KALES BUILDING
76 ADAMS AVENUE WEST
DETROIT 26, MICHIGAN

GREETINGS:

The new Women's dormitory for Hope College will be built on the campus facing East 10th Street, between the President's house and the Science building. It is to be a residence hall for 100 women, and will contain all the latest facilities of modern dormitory design which will contribute to gracious living.

As The Netherlands is one of the birthplaces of modern architecture, - Amsterdam, Rotterdam and Hilversum containing many of the outstanding examples of this new architecture - it seems very fitting and appropriate that American contemporary architecture should clothe any new buildings in Holland, Michigan, U. S. A.

The architecture of the new girls' residence hall will therefore be of modern or contemporary design. A beautiful site lies ready for this building and it will stand amid a grove of trees, the east wing crossing a natural shallow ravine. This will permit larger than ordinary windows in the basement of this wing, giving daylight to a very important room of the building which will be described later.

The building will rise here, a modern composition of ledge stone, limestone and red and orange brick. Flower boxes of ledge stone will frame the entrance steps which will lead one to the covered front entrance. At the left of this entrance one will see the large windows of the living room and reception room, above which will be the windows of the two floors of bedrooms. To the right rise the ladder-like windows of the main staircase.

Upon entering, one will find himself in a large hospitable lounge which merges without an obstructing archway into the cheerful living room. This living room has two walls almost entirely of glass, the wall to the left facing the street, and the opposite wall which faces south contains French doors leading out onto an open terrace with a southeasterly exposure. There will be no windows on the wall facing the Science building. This wall is to contain the fireplace around which happy groups may gather on winter evenings.

The main foyer also leads to the dining room which will seat 175. This room is lighted by an almost continuous wall of glass and doors leading onto the same terrace. For receptions in the spring, summer and fall, the doors from the living room and dining room can be thrown open, allowing the terrace to become a third living and social area.

There is a serving room where cafeteria service can be maintained at breakfast or Sunday evening suppers if so desired.

A modern kitchen and dishwashing room will be adjacent and on the west side of the building. At the southwest corner is the service entrance containing a service ice elevator to the basement where deep freeze refrigerators and general food stores will be installed.

On the ground floor under the living room or east wing is the room previously mentioned in this article. It was placed there because the land forms a slight ravine and larger windows can be obtained here than in the usual basement. This room, larger than the living room above, will be used by special groups for dinners and conferences. A kitchenette adjoins it which will facilitate the serving of food. A fireplace contributes to the good cheer of this room where it is hoped many campus organizations will meet from time to time.

The upper floors contain the student bedrooms where modern wardrobes and built-in chests of drawers are featured. On each floor is to be a kitchenette where the girls may serve tea or very light refreshments to friends.

Class Prophecy

SUFFERING HUMANITY:

The centuries pass, and still we are sick at heart, for we find the torn road of life torturous and long. Our bleeding hands are outstretched to the youth of the world, and we cry in despair, O youth, hear us and help us, we are the oppressed, the starving and the sick, and we are dying . . . But our voices are weak; and our cries but empty sounds in the clamorous confusion of life, our pleas hollow mockery?

YOUTH:

Suffering humanity, your voices are ringing cries of challenge and the call to battle. Your pleas stir in our breasts the iron courage needed to fight the great fight of life. If we yield to evil, if the burden of being our brother's keeper is too great, then we must all perish. Yield . . . never! Let us range our forces on the side of Kindness and Justice, and with the banner of brotherhood gallantly waving on high, storm the murky moat of injustice, and the grim, gray battlements of evil.

THE OPPRESSED:

If you would help us, first lift from our shoulders the cutting yoke of oppression that has been so cruelly forced upon us. A merciless burden chained in place by those who do not recognize any way of life but their own. Those who do not submit to their iron-fisted domination are blinded by war's red glare. Cunning with the cunning of cruelty, these butchers of men and slayers of ideals are dangerous. How can you hope to stop their evil advance? We were weak and failed; will you too fail?

YOUTH:

We will not fail! We will smash the bonds of hatred, and the shackles of tyranny which bind your freedom loving spirits. The staggering burden of oppression will be lifted from your bowed backs, and you shall be made strong and straight again. We will become diplomats and peacemakers, statesmen and thinkers. We will make laws protecting our children's children. We will be peaceable but firm, living as we want to live. The essence of democracy and freedom shall go forth, flowing across the world in a pulsating, ever widening current of love and brotherhood. We will teach through living, so that others may see how we flourish and wonder . . .

THE SICK:

Death's black cloak casts a constant shadow over our lives, and the dim twilight deepens. Our bodies are wracked with fever, and we writhe in the agony that comes with pain. What can we, our weak bodies torn and rent with suffering, do to save ourselves? We must look to you for help, for you are blazing beacons in a sea of misery. What will you do?

YOUTH:

We will become doctors and scientists, nurses and research workers. We will train our hands to cut with the scalpel and sew with the needle so that you may live. Our laboratories will find ways to cure you with drugs and medicines and we will close your wounds with the soothing balm of care and kindness. We will become healers and you will be healed, our hospitals will grow, and you will be rested. The everlasting search for health will continue, and the dim glow of our knowledge shall flame into a brilliant blaze. Health and happiness are the instruments with which to cure your sickness, time the healer.

THE STARVING:

War's devastation and Nature's wrath have wreaked havoc in our lands. Famine is rife, the soil is idle, and we are starving. How would you have us fill our stomachs and fatten our children so that they may live? Will you have us till the soil when our only crop is bitter tears, and stones?

YOUTH:

We will share the wealth of our land with you, the golden wheat of our plains, the beef of our cattle, and the milk of human kindness. We will teach your men of the land how to till the soil and reap harvests of plenty. We will become agriculturists and farmers, ranchers and dairy men. We will share our arsenal of machines and brawn with which to do your work. Your lands shall grow green under the clear skies of happiness and the blazing sun of freedom. You shall prosper and once more your children will laugh and sing.

YOUTH:

What each of us can do is not great in comparison to the tremendous weight of your burdens. But, if we free you from oppression, heal your gaping wounds, and feed your children, then you will be strengthened. You will see that there is yet hope, that what we do is but a beginning, a prophecy of what can be if we and others like us band together in common cause, uniting in an effort to ease your suffering. It is then, that the good we do shall be as a giant tidal wave, washing before it all that is evil, surmounting the grim, gray battlements of famine, pestilence and war. This then, is our destiny . . .

Class Will

We, the class of 1949 of Hope College, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, after four years of constant mental struggle, do hereby solemnly declare this to be our last will and testament.

To the faculty do we bequeath — nothing, since they have at last convinced us that we will need everything we possess.

We, the English majors, will the terrific exams of Dean Hollenbach to whomever is foolish enough to take them.

We leave the profound philosophy of Dr. DeGraaf to anyone whose mind is capable of absorbing it.

We will the kindly manners of Mr. Brand for those who shall need them when they write compositions.

We leave the atrocious mustache of Mr. Prins to the wastebasket.

We, the history majors, leave Prof. Hinga's views concerning marriage to those underclassmen who intend someday to indulge in matrimony.

We bequeath the admiration which Miss Ross bears for the Greeks to those who may have opportunity of enjoying her lectures.

To those who enjoy long assignments and spurts of excitement concerning political elections, we leave Mr. Vanderbush's classes.

We, the music majors, express our sympathy to those who in passing through the chapel halls expect to hear harmony. We leave our screeching voices and fumbling fingers to those who practice in future days.

We leave Miss Paalman's high expectations and obsession for punctuality to future choir members.

We, the psychology majors, will the word 'motivation' to anyone who can use it as successfully as Mr. Granberg.

We leave the calm pleasing manners of Prof. Haverkamp to others who shall struggle over Munn's textbook.

We, the education majors, will Mr. Vander Borgh's inimitable style of expressing himself to future teachers. Perhaps they could use this: "Without using that detestable word, I imagine you know what I mean. We're at the end of a section, and it would be nice to have a little evaluation."

We also leave the enjoyment of Mr. Partington's various amusing facial expressions to other aspiring educators.

We, the mathematics majors, do bequeath the open book tests of Mr. Folkert to other fortunate students.

We leave the undying influence and kindly attitude of Prof. Lampen to those who may have the privilege of knowing him in coming years.

We, the language majors, will the good time had in our respective clubs to future members.

To the few odd students who will take Latin do we bequeath Mr. Wolter's kind heart and wise philosophy.

To those students of caliber who take Greek do we bequeath the joyous smile of Dr. Dykstra.

To Miss Boyd's classes do we bequeath her never failing appearance in the classroom.

To Miss Meyer's classes we will her love of phonetics, and her inimitable "e-eu," and interest in anything French.

To the Spanish classes we leave this advice: "Don't walk out after five minutes of waiting. Mr. Madrid will surely arrive sometime."

We, the biology majors, do bequeath Dr. Vergeer's interest in parasites, and his highly diagrammatic sketches to future research workers.

We, the chemistry majors, will to the Koffee Kletz all the money they haven't received from us thus far.

We will Dr. Kleinheksel's faithfulness in attending classes to those who are inclined not to do so.

To Dr. Van Zyl do we bequeath a new test tube rack and brushes, hoping that he can make his lab as neat as Dr. Kleinheksel's.

We also leave our winning streak over the biology football team to next year's lab.

We, the philosophy majors, will our deep enthusiasm for "Squeaky" Van Saun to others who learn in his classroom the true Christian philosophy of life.

We the sociology majors, will the animated lectures of Dr. Voogd to anyone who desires to listen. We hope that they accomplish writing as many other assignments and letters during these classes as we did.

We, the religion and bible majors, leave "my son Alexander, the small" for Dr. Zsiros to mention in other classes. We leave his remarkable mastery of languages to the amazement of future students.

To those who are fortunate in having Dr. Osterhaven we leave his "Now when I was in college" stories, and his sincere desire to help those in need.

We, who are interested in speech and dramatics, will Dr. Schrier's famous jokes to incoming Speech classes.

We also leave Prof. Avison's constructive criticism to those who endeavor to interpret in future years.

We, the economics majors, do bequeath our new law to prospective husbands: "If your wife has her mind made up, don't try to budget."

We leave our never-dying school loyalty and spirit to the underclassmen. May they prove worthy of it.

What Happened to the Dutch Families Who Flew Here 15 Months Ago? Pg. 4

The Hope College Koffee Klatz always is a good place for a quick date, and Ruth Koop, Holland Senior, and Paul Hendrickson, Grand Rapids Junior, take advantage of it.

"Dutch Treat"

"Don't look at me," says Max Frego, Holland Junior. "You're paying this check." And Molly Ryan, Freshman at Hope College from Muskegon, digs into her purse in a rehearsal for Dutch Treat Week.

Hope Coeds Pay During Big Week

HOLLAND—In case you'd forgotten, Monday is St. Valentine's Day. Certainly students at Hope College remember.

Because what's just St. Valentine's Day to the rest of Western Michigan is the first day of Dutch Treat Week to Hope College. That's the week when it's perfectly proper for a coed to ask for a date with the man of her choice, when even wives of married students foot the bill when they go out with their husbands.

THEY'RE ALL SET

Wait a minute' calls Howard Koop, Holland Senior who's a veteran of the Army Air Force and married. "Dutch Treat Week was lots of fun in my college days as an underclassman," he says, "but now when my wife asks me to go out I still have to pay the bill . . . and she decides where we're going."

But Howard is in the minority; most of Hope's students are all set and waiting eagerly for the event that since its inception in 1932 has become one of the most important affairs in Hope College's social season.

Ann Wolters, Hope Senior from Holland, has dug out a list of original rules for the event—they go like this:

1. If a girl asks for a date, she bears half the expense.
2. If a boy asks, it's the same old story—he pays as usual.
3. Freshmen girls must post on the college bulletin board reservations for the "Spoon Holder" (a very popular bench in the campus) three days in advance. Time limit, two hours and six minutes. Capacity, 10 couples, exclusive of the faculty.
4. Dates negotiated through "student advertisements" in the Anchor, Hope College newspaper, will not be Dutch in one respect. Girls must pay for the advertisement.

"For an entire week the girls will be free as birds," Ann said.

ONLY BRIEFLY

And, in a sense, that's true. But men who are used to paying one night on every date are just as happy about what's coming up. It's a chance to assume the role of the anxious ingenue, waiting for that phone call, but it lasts only a week, and then they can get back to the more secure life of the man who speaks while the girl answers.

See DUTCH TREAT—Page 12

Free dates can be had in the library by following the example (in picture above) of Betty Boeskins, Muskegon Heights Senior, and Walter Boerman, Senior from Firkin, Ill. Below, Chester Droog, a married student, says "It's still Papa who pays" as Mrs. Droog and daughter Cheryl sip a soda. Chris Lawrence Wade enjoys the situation.

Cross Country

With Lars Granberg taking over the role of cross country coach, the Hope harriers climaxed a successful season, grabbing third place in the MIAA meet at Alma in November to net a third place tie with Kalamazoo in the season's final standings. The Hollanders were victorious in their first two dual meets, knocking off Adrian and Hillsdale, but faltering in the final three, bowing to Albion, Kalamazoo, and Alma.

Led by Captain Collins Ottipoby, six men figured in the Hope cross country picture, and were awarded letters for their performances. In addition to Ottipoby, they were Don Vandenberg, Pete Kraak, Hank Parson, Randy VandeWater, and Hugh Campbell.

In the MIAA meet at Alma, Albion grabbed first place with 31 points, Alma second with 60, Hope third with 80, Kalamazoo fourth with 81, Adrian fifth with 97, and Hillsdale sixth with 171. Final standings in the MIAA cross country, including the MIAA and dual meets, gave Albion first with 100 points, Alma second with 70, Hope and Kalamazoo third with 50 points each, Adrian fifth with 20, and Hillsdale last with none.

The story of Hope's 1948 venture into the fields of inter-collegiate gridiron combat is one of hard work and high aspirations, jubilant victory and stinging defeat, and a series of what football fandom calls "breaks" which shattered all visions of an MIAA title. It rudely tossed the Dutch eleven into a tie for the fourth slot in the loop championship scramble.

Wooden shoes ran roughshod over Riverview Park as the Hollanders commenced their pigskin parade late in September with a smashing 13-0 victor over Michigan Normal. A Yonker-to-Holwerda aerial in the second quarter broke the ice, and an eleven-yard touchdown trip featuring Jim Pfingstel in the third stanza capped the scoring. The Hurons found Hope's forward wall nearly impenetrable and were unable to advance further than the Dutch 35.

In unveiling grid relations with Monmouth College, the Dutch found that their Illinois opponents were no pushovers, but managed to force across two first-half tallies and hang on through a hectic final half to a 13-7 win. Jim Pfingstel climaxed a 40-yard Hope drive by plunging into pay dirt from the one-foot line for the first score. Nick Yonker tossed a 27-yard pass to Ted Barrett in the end zone to complete Hope scoring. Monmouth clicked on a 15-yard scamper by Don Armstrong in the final frame.

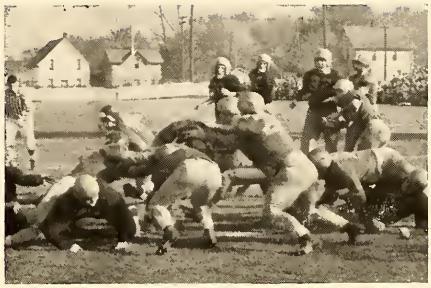
Taking on Adrian in the first MIAA clash of the season, the Hollanders found their customary 13 points a shade too few, and were handed a heart-rending 14-13 defeat by the Bulldogs. Ted Rycenga handed Hope a 6-0 lead in the first quarter with a four-yard off-tackle touchdown slant, but Adrian bounced back with a Burkhardt-to-Hoben-to-Clark aerial affair and a conversion by Rice to lead, 7 to 6, at the half. The Bulldogs increased their margin early in the fourth quarter when Gillis slanted off tackle from the one and Rice again added the point. Later in the same frame, Yonker fired a pass to Clare DeMull for Hope's second tally.



Holtrop slams into the Albion forward wall during the annual homecoming game at Riverside Park

Undaunted, the Dutch came back in their next appearance as they travelled to Hillsdale and blasted the Dales' homecoming celebration with a thrilling 7-0 upset. Ted Barrett provided the spark to ignite the Hope touchdown blaze as he ripped up 43 yards from the Hollanders' 38 to the Hillsdale 19 in the second quarter. A few plays later Nick Yonker connected with an aerial to Bill Holwerda who gathered in the leather on the two-yard marker and slipped across.

Wrecking homecomings was becoming habitual with the Hopeites as they invaded Grand Rapids the following week and poured cold water on Junior College's alumni-attracting affair with a touchdown barrage that gave them a 32-13 win. Hope took a 12-0 first half lead on TD trips by Barrett and VanWingen. The Dutch tallied in the second half when Pfingstel slashed across from the five, and again a moment later when Holtrop intercepted a Raider pass and lateraled to Yonker for a net gain of 30 yards and six points. The JC's slipped in a six-pointer by Cornwall, but Hope came back with a scoring pass from Yonker to Holwerda. A Tietema-to-Owens aerial completed Raider scoring.

It was homecoming time in Holland the next week and the Dutch topped the festivities with their most impressive MIAA exhibition of the season, downing Albion, 33 to 6. Rycenga and Barrett slammed across two quick touchdowns for the Hopeites in first quarter play, but the Britons retaliated with a classy screen pass play in the second frame, featuring a Marvin-to-Martin aerial for 61 yards and a score. Abe Moerland set up a third-quarter tally for the Hollanders when he snagged an Albion pass at midfield and raced to the Briton 14. Rycenga hit pay dirt a few plays later. In the final frame, Ted Barrett circled right end for a 40-yard gain and another touchdown. Hope's fifth tally came late in the tilt on a Hinga-to-VandeWege pass.

Lady Luck frowned upon the Hollanders as they travelled to Kalamazoo for their next tilt. Not only did she frown upon them, but she also handed them another rough break in the form of a safety when Jim Pfingstel was trapped behind the goal line to give Kazoo its two-point margin of victory. Ted Barrett careened 79 yards down the field in the first quarter to net the Dutchmen the lead, but within three minutes the Hornets came back as Flowers tossed to Poth who gathered in the ball on the Hope 43 and swept his way to scoring ground. The fourth quarter safety broke a 7-7 deadlock which had existed since the initial frame, and proved to be the decisive factor in Hope's second defeat.

Alma brought its undefeated Scots to Holland for the season's final engagement, and after first quarter play which spotted Hope 13 points, it appeared as though the Dutch might assume the role of giant-killers. However, a devastating Alma attack knotted the score at 13-all before the intermission, and shoved them into the lead in the final half, the contest ending with Alma on the long end of a 25-13 count. Claus Holtrop plowed across for the first Dutch score, and moments later Bill Holwerda scooped up a blocked punt and raced into pay dirt with the final Hope tally. The Scots scored in each of the four stanzas, Roseman going across in the first, Slotnick in the second, Derby in the third on a 50-yard Kish-to-Thibedeau-to-Derby aerial, and Roseman again in the fourth.

Abe Moerland, Clare DeMull, and Nick Yonker grabbed the greatest share of post-season grid honors in the form of ALL-MIAA selections, honorary captain appointments, and most valuable player awards. Moerland was named by his team-mates as the most valuable gridder on the 1948 Dutch eleven, also was selected as honorary co-captain of the team, and was selected as an All-MIAA guard. Another All-MIAA choice was end Clare DeMull, who was also voted an honorary co-captain of the Hope gridders. Nick Yonker, pass-tossing quarterback, was awarded the All-MIAA quarterback post for the third successive year.

Varsity Basketball

Although unable to entice "Lady Luck" over to its side, Hope's 1948-49 basketball squad maintained a position of respect in Michigan collegiate cage ranks, and were dreaded as a point-producing powerhouse in the MIAA as they succeeded in knocking off all of the loop's quintets, except Kalamazoo, at least once during the season.

Seven defeats by the narrowest of margins accounted for Hope's rather grim record and its fifth-place rating in the six-team MIAA. However, those seven defeats were not ones of which to be ashamed. At no time during the season were the Dutchmen ever defeated by more than a slim four points, and the aggregate total separating Hope from its opponents in those seven tilts was only 21 points, or an average of three points a game.

So tight was the race for the MIAA cage crown during the past season that, had the Hollanders been able to defeat Alma in their last league tussle, they would have grabbed a share of second place rather than the fifth slot which was allotted them after the Scots edged them, 49 to 45.

Another feather in Coach Russ DeVette's cap is the fact that his squad was the only league team to defeat Hillsdale's MIAA basketball champions. The Dutch took the Hillsdale five by a 19-point margin, 63 to 44, at the Armory to avenge an earlier three-point defeat on the Dales' hardwood.

The fact that the Hope quint was regarded as more powerful than its fifth-place rating would indicate was proved at the end of the season when MIAA officials placed two Dutch basketeers on the '48-'49 honor squad. Forwards Herk Buter and Bud VandeWege both were awarded positions on the six-man all-MIAA team. Hillsdale's title-snaring quint was the only other team to place two men on the loop honor squad.

Hope commenced its cage campaign against Percy Jones at the Armory and walked off the floor at the end of the tilt with an impressive 69-42 victory over the medics.

The following week, the Hollanders traveled to Grand Rapids to take on another non-league foe, Grand Rapids Junior College, and overcame the scrappy Raider five by a 47-32 count.

That same week marked the first MIAA contest for the Dutch five and also the first blotch on their record when Hillsdale's Bear Cats turned them back, 58 to 55.

Misfortune struck again in the Orange and Blue's next scrap when the Kalamazoo Hornets stung them, 46 to 44, in an overtime tilt. This was Hope's only loss on the Armory court during the entire season.

Two more non-loop tilts then provided the Hollanders with another brace of victories. Percy Jones was humbled for the second time by a 72-32 count at Battle Creek, and Michigan Normal took a 51-50 setback at the hands of the Dutch in a thrilling fracas at the Armory.

Getting back into conference competition, the Dutch found the going a bit rough again as they traveled to Adrian to absorb a 53-49 defeat, and then went on to Albion where the Britons eked out a slim 60-62 victory.

With four losses and no wins in loop contests thus far, Hope bumped noses with Alma in Holland on the following Tuesday and handed the Scots a 74-65 drubbing for its first league victory.

Playing one of their most outstanding games of the season, the Dutch followed the Alma win with an impressive 63-44 triumph over Hillsdale's Bear Cats, 1948-49 MIAA champs.

The Hollanders then drew blood from their arch rivals, Calvin, as they thumped the Knights by a 21-point margin, 64 to 43, at the Armory.

Kalamazoo continued to be a tack on the Dutch bench when the Hollanders traveled to Kazoo and received their second narrow setback of the season at the hands of the Hornets, 47 to 44.

Adrian and Albion were then pinned down by the Hope quint in revenge for a pair of setbacks earlier in the campaign. The DeVette-men trounced the Britons by a 71-60 count, and then dumped Adrian, 75 to 59.

In a contest which was to decide whether Hope or Alma would grab a share of second place, the loser to take fifth, the Dutch journeyed to the Scots' lair and there were ambushed, 49 to 45, in their final MIAA scrap. Thus, four points separated Hope from a three-way tie for second place in conference standings and shoved them into fifth.

Traveling to Ypsilanti, the Hollanders tallied another easy victory, setting back Michigan Normal, 65 to 59.

Basket Ball

Hope went to Grand Rapids for the year's windup affair, and bumped up against Calvin, a victory-thirsty quint. Although the Knights had defeated the Dutch only twice in thirteen tussles, they proved to be a determined five. Hope led throughout most of the contest, but at its conclusion the Calvin supporters, having dried their eyes, were astounded to see that scoreboard registered Calvin 49, Hope 46.

Freshman Basketball

With only a minimum of practice — an hour of drills once or twice a week, sandwiched in between varsity practice, interfrat tilts, and the women's phys-ed program in the overcrowded program of physical education utilizing Carnegie gym — Coach Jack Schouten's 1948-49 frosh basketball squad closed the season with a record of four wins and five losses.

Considering the limited amount of practice which the squad was allowed, their performance during the season is certainly not to be taken lightly. Coached by Jack Schouten, with the assistance of Jim Muddle, the team entertained early-comers to Hope varsity tilts with their preliminary contests at the Armory. The "frosh-five" also made two road trips during the season, one to Kalamazoo and one to Grand Rapids where they met the Calvin freshman team.

The team opened its schedule against Kalamazoo at the Armory and fell before the classy Junior Hornets by a 56-42 count. The next foe of the freshmen squad was the Fox Jewelers outfit, which took a 69-58 beating by the Little Dutchmen. Pete's Barbeque was easily bowled over by the Schoutenmen, 56 to 30, in the next game on the Armory hardwood Downtown Nash proved a measure too tough for the frosh as they pulled a 55-31 victory out of the bag in the team's next appearance. Calvin College's freshies added another defeat to the squad's record in the next clash when they walked off the floor with a 39-29 win to their credit. The Kalamazoo freshmen five lengthened Hope's losing streak to three games when they slapped down the Dutch frosh, 65 to 43, on the Kazoo floor.

Hope Reformed Church of Grand Rapids sent its squad to Holland for the next freshman preliminary game, and the visitors were sent home with a 46-29 defeat. Allen's Radio then bumped up against the frosh and bounced them around by a 50-38 margin.

In the final contest of the season, the Junior Hopeites took on Calvin in a thrilling tilt at the Grand Rapids Burton court. Completely outclassing the Knighties in the earlier portion of the game, the Hope frosh coasted in to a narrow 52-50 victory.

Lubbers waits in vain as VanWieren slams one out

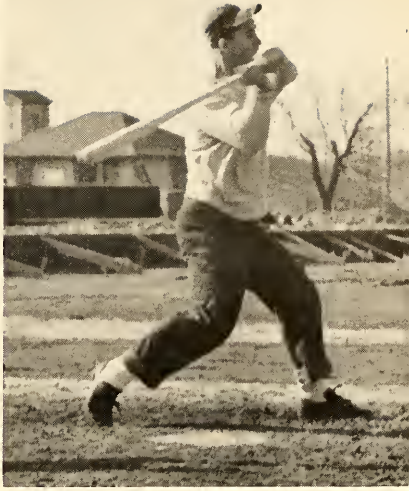
Baseball

Long before the last snow had melted away and patches of green had begun to appear on the diamond at Riverview Park, veteran baseball pilot Jack Schouten called the prospects for his 1949 squad into Carnegie Gym for pre-season drills.

From all appearances, Jack's early and rigorous training periods have not been in vain, for as has been evidenced in their first few starts, the Dutchmen appear to be one of the top defensive units in MIAA circles and should finish in the upper bracket after loop competition this season.

The printer, like time and tide, waits for no man, and as the final pages of the Milestone accumulate in the office of the printer, Hope has completed only four of the 15 games listed on its intensive 1949 schedule. The Dutch nine's superiority in the defensive category is clearly shown by the fact that in these four contests they have allowed the opposition to reach home plate by way of third base only twice. Offensively, the Schouten-men have also been doing quite well, pushing across 18 runs, for an average of better than four a game.

In their opener, the Dutchmen turned back Aquinas College of Grand Rapids by a 2-1 count. Then playing host to Muskegon Junior College, the Hollanders ran wild in chalking up an impressive 11-0 victory. Kalamazoo registered the first defeat on Hope's '49 record with a slim 1-0 victory gained on an unearned run. Traveling to Grand Rapids, the Dutch notched their third win by pushing aside Calvin's Knights, 4 to 0.



VanHoven sets his sights for the grandstand

Six lettermen returned to bolster this year's squad: Jack Marema, a pitcher of the 1948 team was switched to first base; Ernie Meussen returned to third; Harold Van Wieren and Tom VanWingen are back in the outfield; and Bill Ver Hey and Mike Skaalen have returned as the mainstays of the mound staff.

Veltman tosses his "flying saucer"

Hoping to prevent a recurrence of last year's record which put them in the MIAA cellar at the completion of the season, a large group of Dutch thinclads hit the cinder trails early this Spring to prepare themselves for the long trek through a stiff schedule of MIAA competition.

Al Vanderbush, 1948 Hope track mentor, found that he was unable to devote sufficient time to both track and Spring football practice, and so this year relinquished his track post to Russ DeVette, pilot of the basketball squad, and Lars Granberg, whose previous coaching experience has been in the form of guiding Hope cross country squads.

Promises of a better-than-average season were evident when over 50 hopefuls, among them ten lettermen, turned out for drills as soon as the last traces of Winter had faded from the college cinder path. Among the lettermen reporting for action again this season are Ted Barrett, Dutch speed king in the 100 and 220-yard dashes; Hugh Campbell, member of the cross country squad who will run the mile this spring; Ken Decker, the only strong link in the weak hurdling department who will also run the dashes; Bob Koop, whose speed will be exhibited in the 440 and 880-yard runs; Pete Kraak and Don Lee, 1946 MIAA 880-yard run champ, who will return to run the half-mile; Collins Ottipoby, another Hope harrier who has switched to the two-mile event for Spring competition; Fred Veltman, 1948 MIAA champion in the discus; and Jim Lamb and Ernie Ross, outstanding pole vaulters.

Newcomers who are expected to bolster the team are Bob Brink in the mile run, Neil Droppers in the discus, Vern Leestma in the pole vault, Warren Huyser in the mile event, Fred Yonkman in the discus, and Ed Leverette and Ralph Ludwig in the dashes.

Fall Tennis

The 1948 Homecoming celebration was the scene last fall of the second annual men's fall tennis tournament. Fifteen court enthusiasts entered the rugged tourney for a chance to earn the gold medal, which each year is awarded to the winner by Duffy Wade, local businessman.

Competition was plenty tough and when the field was finally narrowed down to the final two contenders, Jack Tirrell and Gene Barendse found themselves on opposite sides of the net for the final round on Homecoming day.

After dropping the first set, 4-6, Tirrell gained the nod in the next, 6-2, and finally toppled Barendse by a slim 7-5 count in the final set to win the tournament and the medal.

Coach Harold Haverkamp's prospects for a top-notch tennis squad were bright this Spring when four lettermen turned out to form the nucleus of a twelve-man team. The quartet of veteran performers are Gene Barendse, Bob Becksfort, Ken Etterbeek, and Jack Tirrell, all of Holland.

Another four Holland lads are listed among the others on the squad. They are Gerry Gnade, Jack VanderVelde, Dick Nieusma, and Ray Humbert. Other members of the team include Chuck Votaw of Muskegon, Tom Drenton of Grand Rapids, Neil VanDis of South Haven, and Bud VerHelst of Grand Haven.

The Dutch netmen have booked a rugged nine-match schedule in addition to the MIAA meet to be held at Kalamazoo on May 19 and 20. In addition to its MIAA competition, Hope meets Calvin and Grand Rapids Junior College for a pair of matches each.

Bob Houtman

Golf again assumed a prominent role in the realm of athletics at Hope this Spring, with Coach Albert Timmer once more directing the college club-wielders in their journeys from green to green on the local course.

Four veterans in the art of sphere socking and seeking were on hand at the start of the season to boost the Orange and Blue's chances of a successful year on the links. Howard Jalving, Bob Houtman, Paul Mulder, and Henry Visser are the quartet of linksmen on this season's squad who were awarded a letter for their action during 1948.

Among the first-year men who have been seeing a good deal of action in early season competition are Del Koop, Andy Zimmerman, and Bill Kloote.

Under the leadership of the W.A.A. Board consisting of one Freshman, two Sophomore, three Junior, and three Senior Representatives and guided by Miss Van Dommelen, women's sports at Hope this year reached a new high.

The program of sports for women is designed to promote good sportsmanship, to create enjoyment for all and to provide every girl with interest in at least one sport.

Interest in team sports was great this year. In the fall, school had hardly begun when Volleyball teams were being organized. A Volleyball round-robin tournament was run-off with twelve teams participating.

Not to be forgotten was the introduction of Field Hockey. The fundamentals of the game were demonstrated to the Freshman gym classes, and despite many bruises, they became quite proficient with the stick.

In the winter, thoughts turned to Basketball. Two leagues were organized with eight teams in the "A" League and six teams (all Freshmen) in the "B" League. Games were played each Thursday night in Carnegie gym and the season was a great success.

Basketball teams were picked to represent Hope in games with Calvin College and also with Holland High School.

Softball was the other team sport so popular with all. Softball leagues were formed with fourteen teams made up of girls from various dorms and random groups. Games were played on Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings at the athletic field and at the VanRaalte Homestead grounds. Four diamonds were in use most of the time.

Individual sports have grown considerably in popularity with the addition of several new sports.

This year Horseback Riding was introduced into the program and was accepted with great enthusiasm. Groups of twelve girls rode each Wednesday afternoon and Saturday morning at the Keewano Stables. This was both a Fall and Spring activity.

Golf, too, was a newcomer this year. Girls were given credit toward an award for golfing as long as their score cards were signed by the "Pro" at the course on which they played. Several sets of clubs were purchased by the Phys. Ed. Department for use in this sport.

An Indoor and Outdoor Archery Range was set up and the arrows began to fly. This sport takes no little amount of skill and the girls really learned how to handle that bow. Archery was added to the program and was enjoyed by all who participated.

Badminton and Ping Pong were two of the most popular individual sports. They were not set tournaments but were carried on in an informal manner. For the first time the W.A.A. sponsored a mixed-doubles tournament in badminton. Matches were played in Carnegie gym each Monday night until late in the Spring.

Bowling is always good sport for women. Friday afternoons saw campus women heading for the alleys. Winners were chosen by individual seasonal averages and the highest individual score. The setting of pins seemed to give as much exercise as the bowling itself.

The Women's Tennis Team played matches with Calvin College and Western Michigan College and on May 12, 13, 14, traveled to Kalamazoo to defend their title in the W.M.I.A.A. tournament. There was a standing team of eight members. There was also an Intramural tennis tournament and a mixed doubles tournament in which many students participated.

Girls were entertained at a Play Day with Kalamazoo College and played hostess to Calvin College. These play days included basketball, volleyball, deck tennis, badminton, ping pong, archery, relays, and a social time.

May Day sports activities cannot be left out of the program. On May Day representatives from each class vie for places in track and field events. The winning class team receiving the most points receives a trophy.

Some hiking has also been added to the program, but has not as yet been included in the award system.

At the end of each year, awards are presented to those who have earned them under the newly revised system.

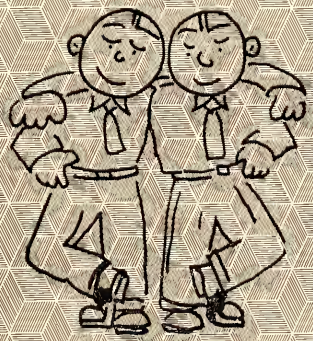
ORGANIZATIONS



Alpha Chi

Alpha Chi was brought into being some years ago to recognize those men on the campus planning on entering some active Christian field of service. It continues to be one of the favorite organizations for such men.

Helpful and inspiring meetings are held the third Monday of every month. At these meetings, a variety of topics on some definite phase of Christian work is presented by noted speakers. Such topics have been "The Call of the Minister," "The True Church," and "The Preparation of Sermons."

Alpha Chi has given its members a vision of future goals and help and encouragement in meeting them. It has been a means whereby the veterans on the front line for the service of Christ have imparted of their knowledge and skill to the volunteers coming to the front. The speakers presented ways and means of avoiding the many pit-falls common to so many in Christian service. They have given the best method of dealing with people in personal contacts and of winning the confidence of others in the social situation.

One very interesting meeting was held at the home of Dean Milton Hinga, when the topic "The Minister As a Regular Fella" was discussed.

One of the projects this year has been that of studying the Scriptures, committing portions of it to memory in order to deal more effectively with the needs of men in personal work.

Alpha Chi has been held together by a strong tie of true Christian love. Friendships have been formed and strengthened which will bind our churches together into a closer unit.

Some of the highlights of the year were the meetings with other organizations of common interest. It has been customary to meet at least once a year with the organization's sister society, Kappa Delta.

The Adelphin society, representing the seminary men of Western Theological Seminary also exchange visits. These get-to-gethers give the pre-seminary student an opportunity to get acquainted with the students and faculty of the seminary and to establish friendly relations before entering the advanced school.

The officers serving this year were: Gerard De Loof, president; Walter Kline, vice-president; Howard Newton, treasurer; and Robert Macy, secretary.

FIRST ROW: R. Macy, H. Cupery, H. Newton, W. Kline, G. De Loof, J. Van Dyke, D. Vandenberg, R. Meyer, J. Menchofer.

SECOND ROW: K. De Jong, N. Rieck, A. Friderici, B. Pennings, L. Lovelace, M. Breen, N. Reck, R. Folkert, L. Kraay, E. Kragt, F. McCormick.

THIRD ROW: E. Eckerson, W. Tripp, J. De Vries, R. Bhe, H. Dean, D. Muyskens, P. Feenstra, R. Norden, W. Estell, H. Dykstra, P. Breen, E. Bruins, M. Shay.

FOURTH ROW: D. Ter Beest, L. Sikkema, P. Lupkes, D. Hakken, L. Akker, R. Poppen, H. Heath, L. Dykstra, F. Goulooze, J. Smith, J. Weener, P. Massen, J. Hakken.

FIRST ROW: M. Schoonveld, C. Van Bruggen, L. Van Farowe, H. Vander Woude, P. Hendrieth, C. Nelson.
SECOND ROW: M. Dixon, K. Hagstrom, J. Smith, S. Hill, R. Richards, S. Roest, Mrs. G. Vander Borgh.

Kappa Delta

Composed of girls interested in various types of Christian Service, Kappa Delta has proved its worth during its comparatively short existence of four years. The opportunities and problems of a Christian worker are presented in many ways, and are both an inspiration and a challenge to its members.

The monthly meetings varied, but always consisted of devotions led by the members and a presentation of some phase of Christian service. The need for witnessing was made effective by means of a chalk talk. Hilda Baker and Evie Van Dam reported on the mission conference they attended in Columbus, Ohio, this fall. Doctor Rottschaefer from India made known to us the needs of the many lepers in that country. Other speakers included Mrs. I. J. Lubbers Mrs. Wells Thems and Mrs Henry DePree.

A joint meeting with Alpha Chi is always popular, and this constituted the December meeting; Doctor Louis Benes, editor of the Church Herald was guest speaker. Christmas gifts were bought to be sent to Sarospatak, Hungary.

This year a new project has been originated. The girls desired to learn by doing as well as by hearing, so approximately six Good News Clubs were begun in the city of Holland. These classes, held in private homes after school hours, afford the girls the opportunity of presenting the message of Christ by means of choruses, flannel graph, and Bible stories to those who have little other religious instruction.

In addition to this, the girls also support a patient in a leper hospital in a foreign country. They raised the money in various interesting ways. A special birthday meeting was held in February for this purpose, and "sacrifice week" also proved beneficial. Once again at Christmas the mission box was packed; this year it was designated for the Indian mission station at Winnebago, Nebraska.

The officers this year include Hazel Vander Woude, president; Lorraine Van Farowe, vice-president; Cornelia Van Bruggen, treasurer; Florence Stewart, secretary; and Margaret Schoonveld, sergeant-at-arms.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club has had one of its most interesting and successful years. The themes of monthly meetings have been timely and varied, with a study of Spanish and Mexican songs, movies, and the literary and art works of the Latin American people presented in an entertaining and highly informative manner.

Several movies were shown during the year, one portraying the life of "Chico," the little Mexican boy with a great love for nature. Another was entitled, "Romantic Old Madrid," a picturesque travelogue to delight and enthrall. These movies are especially interesting as they give Spanish students a "close-up" view of the Latin people as they work and play, and give added emphasis to the reading done in the course.

Singing ranks high as a favorite method for the study of Spanish and Mexican folk-lore and languages. The Latin strain predominating in the music gives it a warm, vibrant rhythm, which makes the singing particularly enjoyable. As in Negro spirituals, the heart-beat of a race can be felt through its music, and it is through this medium that we better understand our neighbors to the South.

The highlight of the year is Christmas, and the Christmas meeting is eagerly awaited. The purpose of the meeting is to celebrate the holiday as it would be observed in the Latin American countries. There is the Mexican Pinata, a large bag filled with sweets and nuts of all kinds. A member of the group is blindfolded, spun around until dizzy, and given a stick with which he attempts to break the bag. When he succeeds in doing this, the rest of the group attempts to retrieve the fallen treasure and there is fun and excitement for all present.

For the very thoughtful and able sponsorship of the club, the group looked to Mr. Don Carlos Madrid and Miss Norma Wolcott. The student officers and their respective offices were: Mary Breid, President; Lois Hall, Vice-President; Esther Schmidt, Secretary; and Duane Booi, Treasurer.

The success of the Spanish Club is due in large part to the cooperation of all its members. It is with the knowledge of having completed a highly successful year that they bid each other, "gracias," and until next year, "hasta luego."

French Club

The enthusiastic members of the French Club meet the second Monday of every month. The homes of the faculty advisors, Miss Nella Meyer and Mrs. Peter Prins, were the scenes for the meetings. In order to apply knowledge of the language, all conversation was conducted in French. Following the business meeting, programs centering around some phase of French literature, art, music, or drama were presented by various student members.

The October meeting was in the form of an illustrated lecture entitled, "What Is Modern Art?" This was presented by the guest speaker, Mrs. Wilma Reed. In November a unique presentation, "France, 1948," was given by means of a French television broadcast. The condition of France was discussed in the light of today's national affairs, literature, art, drama, and music.

Close to one hundred students enjoyed spending Christmas Eve in a gaily decorated French Cafe, "La Rue Pigale." They were entertained in true French style by singing waiters and waitresses, dancers, an orchestra, and all other necessary atmosphere.

The club also held joint meetings with other campus clubs. In January the club was the guest of the English Majors Club. A panel discussion of the literature of the French heroine, Joan of Arc, was conducted with spirited enthusiasm. In March the club invited the Philosophy and English Majors Clubs to a meeting to hear Dr. D. Ivan Dykstra speak on the topic, "Existentialism."

The French Club was happy to secure a full length French film with English titles. This movie, "Le Colonel Chabert," was adapted from a novel by Honore de Balzac. It told of the adventures of Chabert who was buried alive on the battle front, and how he came back to his earlier surroundings to prove his identity. It was interesting to compare the French film tactics with those of America. All students and townspeople who were attracted to this movie went away feeling that they had received something valuable.

The year was concluded with an outdoor picnic in the spring. The business of electing officers for the following year took place at this event.

The officers of the organization for the year 1948-49 were: President, Betty Boelkins; vice-president, Roger Gunn; secretary, Hilda Baker; and treasurer, Norma Hungerink.

German Club

The German Club, or "Deutscher Verein," is the oldest departmental club on campus. Through the years since its beginning, this group has served as a medium through which students of German might meet with one another to exchange their views and information concerning German culture and language. In this way, the work done in the classroom is supplemented and made more interesting for students and faculty alike.

The German Club was in existence during the early years of the college, but was discontinued during World War I. However, reorganization took place about 1935, and since that time the club has been active on Hope's campus.

The meetings are held monthly, sometimes in the chapel and in buildings on campus, but often in private homes where informality is the rule. Various programs of musical, literary, and cultural nature are presented at these meetings. Following the meetings, informal get-togethers are held in which German games are played, and a deeper insight into the nature of the German people is given. It is this insight for which the German Club strives. A study of the basic elements of a language is not enough to understand the spirit of a nation and its people. It is through these informal sessions that the students come into contact with the German people themselves, their writings, works, and pastimes. Thus, the study of the language is greatly enriched.

A further contact with the German people is provided by writing letters to young people in Germany. Along with this, the German Club has been aiding young German students for the past two years with gifts of school supplies. These gifts are sent to the German Youth Association which is sponsored by the American government in Oberammergau.

An occasion of great anticipation is the annual Christmas party which is held at the home of Miss Laura Boyd. The members enjoy an evening of Christmas music, stories, songs, and fellowship in the same manner as the German youth observe the Christmas season. Another highlight is the annual picnic at the close of each year. After this picnic, the members of the German Club bid each other "Auf Wiedersehn," knowing that another successful year of German Club activities has been completed.

English Majors Club

The English Majors Club was organized to supplement the regular classroom work in the field of literature. This year a series of programs of varied content were planned and successfully executed by the officers and members of the club. Meetings were held on the third Thursday of each month at Gilmore Cottage.

At the first meeting of the year in October, Dr. John Hollenbach recounted some interesting personal reminiscences of William Ellery Leonard, poet and teacher, and concluded his dissertation with a sensitive reading of a portion of Mr. Leonard's poem, "All Our Lives." A trip to Grand Rapids was successfully made by the club in December for the purpose of seeing a performance of George Bernard Shaw's play, "Pgymalion." Prior to this, at the November meeting, Mr. Shaw, as an individual, as a social critic, and as a dramatist was discussed. The performance of the play was excellent, and it was enjoyed by all the members of the club.

The January joint meeting, with the French Club as guests, was in the form of a round table discussion. The consideration showed how various English, American and European authors have reacted to Joan of Arc, a fascinating character of history.

In February, in anticipation of his visit to the campus, the life and poetry of Dr. Edward Davidson, Professor and Chairman of the Department of English at Washington and Jefferson College was discussed. He is the author of the volume of poetry entitled, "Harvest of Youth."

Wherever he spoke, Dr. Davidson impressed everycne with his unique and earnest personality, and with his wide range of knowledge in the fields of poetry and literature. Dr. Davidson also addressed a special meeting of the faculty and conducted a clinic in creative writing. His thesis, that poetry should be an important and initial part of living, was emphasized by his expressive recitations. His visit was in many ways the high point in the club's activities for the year.

The officers of the club for the school year were: Sumiye Konoshima, president; Carolyn Ingham, vice-president; Glenn Van Haitsma, secretary-treasurer. Dr. DeGraaf served as the faculty advisor, and was ably assisted by the faculty members of the English Department.

Sociology Club

The Sociology Club is one of the younger clubs on Hope's campus. Age has very little precedence, however, for the activities of the club were filled with variety and interest this year. At the close of its second year of existence a label of success could be stamped adequately and accurately on the organization.

The club, which has an active membership of approximately twenty-five students, meets on the first Monday of every month. The meetings are open to all students majoring in the field of sociology and any other persons who are interested in social work and its progress. More and more the realization of the importance of social work in our world today is becoming known. Sociology is a field which can no longer be minimized.

The meetings this school year were spiced with variety. Members were privileged to witness numerous outstanding movies. Also, excellent leaders were secured from various fields of social work and their lectures were greatly appreciated and enjoyed. Lively discussions concerning social problems and their implications were conducted by club members. This practical aspect proved of benefit to everyone. Various field trips were planned which were found to be highly educational and beneficial. Included in these was a journey to the county court in Allegan. The general court procedures were observed and interesting explanations were given by the men who headed the individual departments. Also, a trip was made to Grand Rapids. Here the club members listened to a lecture given by Mr. Harold Russel, noted chiefly for his part in the film, "The Best Years of Our Lives." Mr. Russel lost both of his arms in World War II.

Following the lecture, a tour was made through the Grand Rapids Police Department. On the tour, the police staff introduced the club to the intricacies of the law-enforcement system. This method of first-hand observance was found to be most helpful. Also, the club members discovered and learned more concerning delinquencies, their causes, and the ultimate effect after treatment. The means of treatment was also observed. Before returning to the campus, a visit was made to the Juvenile Home of Grand Rapids. Again a guide conducted the student tour and pointed out the things of interest. Much practical benefit was derived from these trips.

Many pleasant hours of sociability and relaxation were interspersed with the regular meetings. Sociability naturally would be a basic requisite of the Sociology Club. Dr. Henry Voogd's ever-present help as sponsor did much to aid the club during the year.

FIRST ROW: D. Boss, J. Moessner, L. De Kleine, D. Milne, M. McLean, A. Rynbrandt, M. Te Ronde.

Philosophy Club

The power of man's ability to think is as yet unfathomable. Aided by thought, man has risen from whatever he might have been to man the philosopher, man the scientist, man the artist, and, above all, man the prophet. Philosophy was born when the first man scratched his woolly head and asked, "Why?" What might man be, had he never questioned life?

About twelve years ago Donald Martin, a Hope student, gathered a few students together who were asking that eternal question, and as a result, the Philosophy Club met at the home of Dr. Walter Van Saun, where the founders gathered to share their thoughts.

The club is proud of the records of not a few of its past members. Donald Martin, founder of the Philosophy Club, graduated from Hope in '37 and went to the University of Michigan for graduate study. Donald Van Liere, Hope, '39, received a Ph.D. degree from Indiana University, and is now teaching Psychology at that institution. Robert H. Bonthius, Hope, '40, added to his records a B.D. from San Francisco Theological Seminary in 1943, and a Ph.D. degree from Columbia in 1947. At present Dr. Bonthius is Assistant Professor of Religion at Wooster College, and is the author of "Christian Paths to Self Acceptance." Calvin De Vries, Hope, '41, is a graduate of the New Brunswick Theological Seminary, and is serving as assistant-pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church in Chicago. Allen Dykstra, Hope, '48, served as chairman of the Philosophy Club for two years, and is now a Regents Fellowship student at the University of Michigan.

The Philosophy Club presented a series of extremely interesting papers beginning with a study of the "History of Tolerance" which was read by Dr. Van Saun. Willard Curtis, a student at Western Theological Seminary, presented a paper concerning "Kant's Critique of Pure Reason." David Dykstra, Vergil Dykstra, and John De Vries, who had prepared papers for special reading courses under the Philosophy Department, presented their papers before the club. They were, respectively, "Albert Schweitzer, Successor and Critic of Kant and Shopenhauer"; "The Basis of Kierkegaard's Attack on Christiandom" and "An Introduction to Kierkegaard, an Existentialist Philosopher."

Officers for 1948-49 were Edwin Nelson, president, Burrell Pennings, vice-president.

Chemistry Club

Once a month the Chemistry Club meets to bring together those chemistry majors who intend to make chemistry their profession. When the regular business of the club has been transacted, the meeting is brought to its climax by research papers. These are read by senior members of the club and concern significant topics in the field of chemistry. The papers are augmented by talks given by professionals in this specific field. In the spring the club also takes a field trip; the purpose of this trip is to visit industry and to see chemistry as it is practiced. This has been a traditional procedure for the twenty-six years that the Chemistry Club has been in existence. It was originally organized by thirteen chemistry majors to "encourage the study of chemistry at Hope College and to perpetuate a fraternal spirit among its members."

Under the guiding hands of Dr. Van Zyl, Dr. Kleinheksel, and Prof. Vander Ploeg, the organization has become a part of the department of chemistry and serves to unite its members in their common interest. It also serves to provide an extra-curricular approach to chemistry, to quicken interest in graduate work, and to prepare its members for work in graduate studies and in their profession.

As an extension of these aims, the Chemistry Club expects to become an affiliate of the American Chemical Society. This will provide a closer link with the profession with which the club members will be identified in later years.

Biology Club

The Biology Club of Hope College, under the capable leadership of President George Zuidema, gave its members during the past year the most varied and educational types of programs in its history.

The club, consisting of biology majors and pre-medical students maintaining a "B" average, enjoyed diversified scientific films and various speakers which included domestic practicing scientists and those engaged in missionary work. One of the highlights of the year's activities was the club's visit to the Upjohn Pharmaceutical Company and the Kalamazoo State Hospital. At both of these institutions, a thorough tour was made of the premises and complete information was given to the club members.

The second highlight of the year was the meeting at which the physicians of Holland and the surrounding area were the guests of the Biology Club. Two outstanding medical films on the latest techniques of surgery were secured from the Lahey Clinic in Boston for this meeting. After the presentation of the film, a social hour followed in which the practical side of medicine and biology was reviewed and discussed for the benefit of the club members.

Also, during the spring term, plans were formulated and action taken to unite the Biology Club with a National Biology Honorary Fraternity.

The Biology Club was founded with the purpose of fulfilling three objectives. First, to aid in furthering the scientific information of its members; second, to propagate the necessity and value of Biology to the campus and community; third, to endow its members with a Christian philosophy of science. With Dr. Teunis Vergeer's excellent guidance, the Biology Club ended its school year having completed its goal most successfully.

International Relations

Throughout the year, International Relations Club meets to provoke serious thought and discussion about the world situation. These discussions have centered around the Indonesian question, the menace of "Red" China, Communism in India, and the North Atlantic Security Pact. Along with these meetings, the club endeavors to bring to the campus special speakers who are authorities in their respective fields. This enables all students to become better acquainted with the problems and possibilities which challenge them today.

Each year the club holds informative and interesting meetings with the I.R.C. Club from Grand Rapids Junior College. Another of the special interests this year was the participation of several Hope students in the Model United Nations Conference held at Hillsdale College.

The highlight of the year came, however, with the attendance of five Hope delegates to the Foreign Policy Conference at Columbus, Ohio. The delegates were asked to formulate resolutions which they would like to have adopted. These were thoroughly discussed at the conference. The proposal presented by the Hope delegation, with reference to the North Atlantic Security Pact, was one of the few to be passed. The adopted measures were then sent to their respective committees in the United States Congress. Thus we see that I.R.C. can do something worthwhile, and that the discussion meetings bear fruit.

The club has also been active in sponsoring panel discussions, and in furnishing speakers for various organizations in the city as well as in neighboring communities.

With Miss Metta Ross as able counselor, the following officers have directed the activities of the club this year: Arthur Ponstein, president; Peggy Prins, vice-president; Lillian High, secretary; Sumiye Konoshima, treasurer.

FIRST ROW: S. Leslie, S. Konoshima, M. Schoonveld, A. Hibma.
SECOND ROW: M. Prins, G. Avakian, A. Moolenaar, M. Wolffensperger, F. Hrbek.
THIRD ROW: A. Ponstine, J. Dinger, H. Dean, W. Hamelink, J. De Haan.

Math-Physics Club

FIRST ROW: Prof. A. Lampen, I. Heenstra, S. Leslie, C. Ingham, Prof. C. Kleis.

SECOND ROW: J. Wolterbeek, J. Ryskamp, C. Zoet, Prof. J. Folkert, V. Makowsky, W. Oostendorp.

THIRD ROW: H. Heerspink, R. Hoebeke, Prof. H. Frissel.

An organization that has yet to burn its first birthday candle, but feels it has gained its place among Hope's clubs and societies is the Math-Physics Club. Organized to stimulate interest and to provide additional information, those students who had a year of college physics were eligible, as were also those who had mastered the mathematical field through calculus.

Under the guidance of its sponsors, Prof. Jay Folkert and Prof. Harry Frissel, the infant organization presented information in an interesting way to its members. Occasionally members read various special papers on the history of physics or some particular phase of these two subjects. Various films of special interest were shown, thus proving that the youth of this club in no way interfered with its efficiency. The first year was labeled successful.

Harvey Heerspink held the office of charter president; William Ostendorp acted as assistant. Irene Heemstra kept the records, while John Ryskamp handled the accounts.

All the charter members feel that a good beginning has been made, and upon future members of this club confidence and encouragement are bestowed.

Women's House Board

FIRST ROW: D. Davis, M. Buttlar, N. Corp, H. Baker.

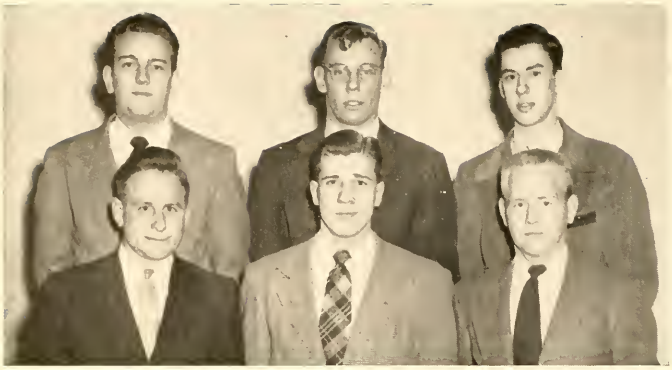
The Women's House Board rates an important position on Hope's campus — to the dormitory women. This is the group that establishes the rules and regulations necessary for the well-being of those girls who, during their school days, live in a "home away from home". This year House Councils have been operating in the individual dorms to meet the needs of girls in that particular dorm.

The three C's — Courtesy, Consideration, and Cooperation — play a large part in the success of the new system which seeks to place individual responsibility on the girl rather than relying on "don'ts".

Under the supervision of the Dean of Women, Miss Emma Reeverts, and the girls who constitute the Board — its elected officers and the individual dorm presidents, decisions are reached which are efficient, considerate, just, and beneficial to all.



Pi Kappa Delta

FIRST ROW: P. Breen, W. Jellema, V. Dykstra.

SECOND ROW: H. Moes, D. Shoemaker, F. Goulooze.

Pi Kappa Delta is the National Honorary Forensic Society on the campus. Members of this organization are elected in the spring of each year from those upperclassmen who have achieved proficiency in inter-collegiate forensics. The Michigan Gamma Chapter at Hope has an enviable record since its inception in 1926. The purpose of Pi Kappa Delta is the encouragement of forensic activity in the student body in the fields of debate, oratory, extemporaneous speaking, and group discussion.

Functionary officers for 1948-49 are Henry Shaw, president, Floyd Goulooze, vice-president, and Dennis Shoemaker, secretary-treasurer. Members of the society have participated in inter-collegiate forensic tournaments throughout the Middle-West and obtained for Hope College an exemplary record. Membership in this national organization is the coveted reward offered to those who have represented Hope in forensic endeavor.

Debate

D. Shoemaker, F. Goulooze, H. Grissen, H. Moes.

The debate teams, representing Hope College for 1948-49, were few in number and somewhat lacking in experience, but every member showed keen interest in the question — Resolved: "That Federal Aid should be given to Equalize Educational Opportunity By Means of Annual Grants To Public Schools."

The teams, coached by Mrs. Harry Harter, instructor in speech, consisted of two experienced squads known as the "Big Four". Members were: Harold Grissen, Floyd Goulooze, Harvey Moes, and Dennis Shoemaker. In addition to these two squads, there were several novices which showed great promise in both the women's and men's divisions.

All teams participated in inter-squad debates, several of which took place before local audiences, such as Hope Church Adult Fellowship, Methodist Church Men's Club, Froebel P. T. A., and Women's Literary Club.

Inter-collegiate competition consisted of practice rounds with Kalamazoo College on the afternoon of the Hope-Kazoo game. Also, the "Big Four" traveled to Bloomington, Ill., for the Seventeenth Invitational Debate Tournament. The novices did remarkably well in the State Novice Tournament at East Lansing. The "Big Four" then went to Wayne University for the M. I. S. L. contest. Highlighting the entire year, Hope sent the two squads to the National Pi Kappa Delta convention held at Bradley Polytechnic Institute at Peoria, Ill., from April 10-14.

THIRD ROW: E. Jannenga, N. Hungerink, L. Drake, B. De Ryke, G. Duiser, H. Fredericks, Joyce Baker, M. Van Loo, Jane Baker, R. Swander.

The newly-organized Elementary Teachers' Club is composed of junior and senior girls who are planning on teaching in the elementary grades. Meetings are held on the third Monday of each month.

The ball started rolling in September with an informal get-together at the home of Mrs. Henry Schoon. At this meeting, plans were made for future events of the year.

Included in this year's program was a talk by the public health nurse of Ottawa County. Movies, showing the warning signs of communicable diseases, were presented. Mrs. Florence French, house director at Columbia Cottage, acquainted the group with many of her rich experiences in teaching. A spring beach party was also made a part of the year's events and a special meeting was held at which full-time and practice teachers shared their experiences.

Mrs. Henry Schoon and Mr. Stephan Partington are the club's advisors. Officers of the Teachers' Club are Barbara Van Dyke, president; Jan Joldersma, vice-president; Betty Weaver, secretary; and Amy Koning, treasurer.

Who's Who

FIRST ROW: P. Breen, T. Harrison, O. Koeppe, V. Dykstra.

SECOND ROW: C. Ingham, J. Mulder, J. Brunstetter.

THIRD ROW: H. Ridder, M. Buttlar, M. Prins, P. Hinkamp.

The honor of selection for the 1948-49 issue of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" was given this year to twelve outstanding members of the senior class. Those selected for this recognition were Carolyn Ingham, Judith Mulder, Marguerite Prins, Jean Brunstetter, Marie Buttlar, Vergil Dykstra, Timothy Harrison, Paul Hinkamp, Peter Breen, William Hillegonds, Herman Ridder, and Owen Koeppe.

The purposes of the national publication are to serve as an honorary organization in which deserving students, after displaying merit in college, would be given recognition by the publication of their biographies. It also establishes a reference volume of authoritative information on the great body of America's college students. Those thus honored were chosen on a basis of character, scholarship, leadership in extra-curricular activities, and potentiality for future usefulness to business and society.

SECOND ROW: G. Schneider, D. Hakken, T. Flaherty, G. Van Singel, H. Tuurling.

Hope College's Photo Club is an organization which offers much to students interested in any phase of photography. For it is the Photo Club which unites students in a common bond, a love for photography.

The Photo Club meets bi-monthly. Its meetings are well-attended, and offer a wide range of material for the amateur photographer. Prints are compared and judged for their beauty and artistic excellence. The work of members is discussed, so that the benefit of combined experience may be utilized. Instructive lectures are given on such integrated subjects as lighting and posing, for these are the tools with which the photographer must work.

Main event of the year is the All-College Photo Contest in May. The contest is divided into various phases of campus life, and a grand prize winner is selected.

The excellent work of the photo club is indicative of the caliber of its various members, led by their president, Russell Kraay, and sponsored by Mr. Clyde Geerlings and Professor Harold Haverkamp.

Health Clinic

The Hope College Health Service originated in 1946, Prior to that year minor ailments were treated within the confines of the nurse's dormitory room, and more serious cases were referred to local physicians. In September, 1947, Abraham Leenhouts, M.D., graduate of the University of Michigan, having just retired from active practice in Holland, was asked to become the first college physician. He brought to the campus not only his equipment and knowledge, but also a listening ear and a friendly, Christian philosophy which has endeared him to many. He was assisted by two registered nurses and a nurse aide.

In February, 1947, Jennie Spoelstra, R.N., of Presbyterian Hospital, Chicago, Illinois, and a graduate of Hope College, arrived to relieve the stress of the clinic responsibilities, and to organize it to meet more fully the students' needs. She was instrumental in securing fine equipment and in enlarging facilities. Thus the Health Service was better enabled to fulfill its aim of providing a "home away from home" for students when ill on the campus. Clinic and infirmary care are now offered to every Hope student, and the only charges made are nominal ones for penicillin injections, infirmary care, and special prescriptions.

Since the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, Mrs. M. De Boer has often been called the "heart of the clinic." While her culinary art is justifiably her great pride, patients find that her cooking is also embellished with philosophical gems.

September, 1948, brought a new group of nurses with A.B. aspirations. Shortly after Christmas, Dr. Leenhouts' health made it necessary for him to take a rest in Florida. Miss Spoelstra (and the clinic mascot, Ginger) returned to the University of Kansas for completion of her master's degree in parasitology, and Connie Bergers, R.N., terminated her stay at Hope when she became Mrs. Bernard Kool.

William Moerdyk, M.D., University of Michigan graduate, and Mrs. Moerdyk, R.N., Reformed Church missionaries home on furlough from Arabia, were in charge of the Health Service while Dr. Leenhouts was gone. They were assisted by senior Joyce Muilenburg, R.N., Presbyterian Hospital, Chicago, Illinois; junior Felecia Hrbek, R.N., Christ Episcopal Hospital, Jersey City, New Jersey; and sophomore Jean Brondyke, R.N., Jane Lamb Memorial Hospital, Clinton, Iowa.

While routine colds constitute the number one clinic complaint, such things as typhoid fever, mumps, scarlet fever, toboggan accidents, sundry sprains, eye examinations, and laboratory mishaps are also treated.

Student Council

This year the Student Council was under the able direction of President Timothy Harrison. Carolyn Ingham held the office of vice-president. The significance of these offices is proved by the fact that the entire student body participates in electing these two persons. The remainder of the council consists of representatives from each sorority and fraternity, Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A., Women's Activities League, and each class.

Meetings are held every other week on Tuesday evenings. Problems of both the administration and the students are considered and better relationships are sought between them. Meetings of the council are open to the students so that anyone can voice an opinion or bring a vital matter to light. This year a committee consisting of faculty members, the Student Council President, and W.A.L. President are working on ideas for closer ties between administration and students and for a better functioning, more effective council. Next year these plans should go into effect. The council is the student's means of voicing opinions in college government, and it is up to the individual students, and the organizations, to make use of this system.

One may ask just what the council actually does in promoting these relations mentioned. One method used is the sponsoring by the council of many major college events throughout the year. Some minor activities are also managed by the council. The Freshman initiation period rules are set forth by the council and members act as policemen throughout the period. This year Art Tuls and Nick Yonker acted as chief "sheriffs." Offenders are tried and sentenced before the council "jury." The beginning of the initiation period was the All-College Mixer, at which time the "greens" were purchased by the Freshmen. Each class presented a skit at the event after which the council served refreshments. "Burning of the green" at the end of the initiation period came off in spite of the rainstorm that night.

"Homecoming," one of the biggest events of the year, is sponsored by the council. Clayton Van Hall and Jan Joldersma did a wonderful job as co-chairmen of the event. The new system of choosing a Homecoming queen and court proved very successful. Each class elected two girls and from these eight, an anonymous committee of ten members selected a queen, with the other seven serving as a queen's court.

A special Student Council treat this year was the "Washington Conference" musical, adding a new success story to college events.

Dutch Treat Week with all its benefits is sponsored by the council, and had Walt Boerman and Connie Hinga working on the project this year.

The All College Sing is another highlight of Student Council sponsored activities in the spring of each college year.

The assembly periods each week, bringing many celebrities to the campus, are sponsored by the council with the arrangement of the administration.

The cooperation of the student body constitutes the backbone of the council's success. It is the hope that the council may, in the future, have more opportunity for advancing college government.

Women's Activities League

One of the most representative women's groups on the campus is the Women's Activities League. It is composed of members of every class and of every women's organization on the campus.

Under the capable guidance of Dean Reeverts and Mrs. French as counselors, this year's board set up an extensive program and each member of the board was in charge of one of its entertaining, worthwhile projects.

The W.A.L. began its work before school convened with the publication of the bulletin outlining the coming events. These bulletins were given to the girls during registration, as the freshmen joined and the old members renewed their membership in the organization. The Orientation Tea gave the new girls on campus a chance to meet both the women faculty members and the older Hope-ites. Activities ranged from the formality of the Orientation Tea to the informality of a beach picnic. Laughter excelled at the All-Girl Party. This was an innovation this year, and was acclaimed highly successful by the girls on Hope's campus.

The final program before the Christmas vacation was the All-College Holiday Mixer in Carnegie Gymnasium. This was well-attended and well-received by the students who sought and received a fun-packed evening.

February held a prominent place on the calendar this year. The ever-popular Masquerade Party this year featured two sets of house-directors, besides a variety of colorful, original, and amusing costumes and skip presentations.

In March, the W.A.L. presented its campus service project. This meeting was planned to stress some important phase of life, whether on campus or in the community.

The Penny Carnival in April proved to be a money-making project for W.A.L. Each sorority and fraternity provided a booth where eager students, having turned their penny banks upside down, roamed, observed, and spent their savings to contribute to some worthy organization selected by the board.

The May Day Celebration was an all-day event, beginning in the morning with the women's sports events, followed by the men's sports tournaments, and culminating in the evening by the crowning of the campus queen and a formal banquet.

Providing for the social needs of the girls on campus has been the chief function of the W.A.L. Board. Its activities have done much to provide those experiences which contribute toward happy, memorable times at Hope College.

Y. W. C. A. Cabinet

Work begins for the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet at the Spring Retreat. This year it was held at the North Holland Reformed Church in cooperation with the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet. It is here that the years' activities are planned, including Orientation Week, Prayer Week, Mission Drive, Campus Visitors' Week, and the numerous "Y" meetings in the year to come. Suggestions are made, committees appointed, and goals are set.

Orientation Week is the first important event. The regular drive for membership is conducted;. the Y-Fore is published and distributed, which includes information of the work of the "Y" organizations; the Hope Hi-Lights, a useful pocket-calendar notebook is printed for the students and faculty; trains and buses are met, an information booth is erected; and the highlight of the week, the beach party, is held for all new students with fun, fellowship, and food.

During Prayer Week Dr. Will W. Orr came to our campus and delivered a series of inspirational sermons and conducted several outstanding informal discussions. By means of the Mission Drive over two thousand dollars was collected to aid the Hope High School in India.

Weekly meetings of the Y. W. C. A. and the joint meetings with the Y. M. C. A. afford limitless inspiration and guidance for the students on the campus. It is the work of the "Y" Cabinets to plan for all these meetings and programs.

Besides the four officers, the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet includes the following: the music chairman, whose duty it is to arrange music for all meetings and "Y" conducted chapel programs; the publicity chairman, who makes posters, announcements, and in other ways publicizes the work of "Y"; the missionary chairman, who plans and executes the Mission Drive; the deputation chariman, whose duty it is to arrange all student deputation teams who conduct programs in the churches and organizations in Holland and vicinity; the membership chairman, who is in charge of the membership drive.

Also, the social chairman, the girl who plans any parties, picnics, or social functions of "Y"; the personal chairman, who arranges for all the meetings of "Y" and transportation when necessary; the area chairman, who contacts other "Y" organizations for ideas and fellowship; the big-sister chairman, whose duty is to arrange for each freshman to have a big sister, an upper classman, through whom she can become acquainted with Hope College; and the Freshman representative, who acts as a delegate of the freshman class and becomes acquainted with the work of the "Y."

These members of the cabinet with the two sponsors, Mrs. I. J. Lubbers and Miss Alice Lammers, meet every Monday at five o'clock to plan and discuss the work of the Y. W. C. A.

Y. M. C. A. Cabinet

"Welcome, Hope Students!" These were the first words which greeted all Hope students as they arrived at the depots in the beginning of the 1948-49 school year. These were not simply words, for in addition to meeting students at the depots and assisting them in every possible way, the "Y's" presented many opportunities to make new acquaintances by means of the events of Orientation Week. The first issue of the "Y-Fore" extended further welcome, and revealed the high moral purpose of "Y". The "Hope Hi-Lites" gave a further introduction to Hope and to the coming activities of the year. The beach party for new students left many memories of fun, food, and fellowship which shall long outlast the four years at Hope.

The annual mission project was unusual because of its timeliness and its relationship to our college. In 1916, the first mission project of Hope College was the partial support and establishment of Hope High School in Madanapalli, India. The first principal of Hope High School was Dr. John D. Muyskens. This year the speaker for the mission drive was this same Dr. Muyskens, and his challenge was to reopen the doors of the Hope High School. The school had been closed in 1920, and an urgent plea was made in order that it might again become a training center for Christian leadership in India. The response was in the form of personal contributions which totaled far in excess of the two thousand dollar goal.

The presence of the Holy Spirit on the campus became a deeper reality to many students and faculty members as a result of the inspired messages of Dr. Will W. Orr, pastor of Westminster United Presbyterian Church in Des Moines, Iowa. The daily chapel services, conferences, afternoon prayer services, and question box meeting will ever continue to be reminders of deep spiritual awakening and strengthening to those who were willing to "Kneel to be Knighted."

Each Tuesday evening presented a challenge and a variety of experiences which have been a continual encouragement to Christian living. The Christian Service Series which presented such speakers as The Rev. Gill Dodds, Dr. Otto Pieper, and Dr. Wells Thoms proved a great success.

The gospel deputation teams have been active throughout the entire year, and they have been a great means of growth to those who have taken part in them. The churches which have heard their message have received a blessing and have also been a blessing.

The devoted and sacrificial guidance of Rev. William Miller and Dr. M. Eugene Osterhaven have been indispensable toward the planning and promotion of a most prosperous year.

The Anchor

The year 1948-49 saw a revolutionary movement in the organization and policy of the Anchor. This year the editorial policy of the paper was frankly and honestly stated. In the opinon of Editor Herman Ridder, and his staff, the Anchor was "the place for student opinion to be aired," and "where everyone can appraise it."

That simply was the editorial policy, but it meant an awakening of interest in having the Anchor become a potent force on campus, a paper edited and published by students, for students. With this goal in sight, the machinery which is the life blood of a newspaper swung into action. The editors stated their opinions and beliefs in straightforward editorials, urging that the student body take part in the revitalizing process, in order that the opinions of the student body would be known. Issue after issue urged that the students participate actively in their role as representatives of the student body. And student interest daily grew, until the Spring of 1949 found a "new" Anchor, streamlined, with its finger on the pulse of student opinion.

But the reorganization did not halt in the editorial department. In the structure of the paper itself changes could be seen. These changes were beneficial to the operation of the paper, and made it more effective. In the Business Staff definite changes were made. An Assistant Business Manager and an Advertising Manager were instituted as separate sub-divisions under the control of the Business Manager. This made the maintenance of the paper financially sound in that the system of collection and selling were greatly facilitated. In addition to this reorganization, the Business Staff originated a novel system whereby students would advertise in the classified section of the paper for reasonable rates. Under the leadership of Richard Hoebeke, Business Manager, the Business Staff performed capably.

The Anchor led the way in many activities on campus, and acted as a sounding board for various issues that arose during the year. A discussion of dining hall facilities at Hope led to a poll which indicated that the student body was opposed to the existing system of dining. A presidential poll was taken to discover how a cross-section of Hope's student body reacted to the political situation. A column entitled "Lab Notes" was begun for students interested in science, and a Dean's List was published.

The excellent work done on this year's Anchor cannot be credited to any one person, but is the result of cooperation between the staff members of the paper and the student body, as well as the active interest shown by members of the faculty. Without this cooperation, the Anchor could not have done such a splendid piece of work.

Sixty-one years of publication has seen the Anchor grow and improve, ever willing to seek that which is true. In pursuing this search for truth, the editors and staff of the 1948-49 Anchor proudly end this year, secure in the knowledge that the torch of "freedom of the press" has been carried in the best tradition.

Business Manager Bob Becksfort reports to Editor-in-Chief Max Frego on the financial standing of the MILESTONE.

The Milestone Staff

With a staff of twenty-three people, the MILESTONE for 1949 was begun last May with the election of Max Frego as editor-in-chief, and was completed in early May of this year when the last book was bound.

Under the energetic guidance of Business Manager Bob Becksfort, the advertising section was completed just after Christmas vacation. Local business men and institutions in the surrounding area contributed to the success of this job by willingly purchasing space in the MILESTONE.

Associate Editor Evie Van Dam worked hard in getting all the stories in before the end of March, and Literary Editor Lorraine Drake did her share by providing typists, copyreading, material, retyping stories and finishing many minute, but important jobs.

A big task was tackled by Trudy Kloosterman, co-desk editor. Scheduling individual and group pictures, alphabetizing names, writing captions, and a hundred other things were a part of Trudy's job. Larry Masse's work as the other desk editor entailed much that ordinarily might have gone undone. But Larry's aptitude carried him into the midst of writing articles and checking pictures.

Gord Beld's duties as sports editor were also burdensome. He did his job, and he did it well. Covering athletics was not an easy job. With the last of the spring sports in, Gord's work was completed.

Ed Adler was busy from last September until late in March taking pictures of buildings, groups of people, individuals; in fact, almost anything that pertained to Hope's activities. His, also was not an easy task, but it seemed as though the more complex the work appeared, the better the job was done.

Jim Hoffman's responsibility was that of working close to Gord Beld in taking pictures of spring sports. He had to work fast and work hard, but he came out on top in the end.

The art editors, Jayne and Joyce Baker, with the assistance of Pete Westerhoff, contributed an immense amount of time and energy in designing the division pages, all the art work, and the most important art job, the cover. The covers were ordered in December, and they arrived at the binders in March.

Al Schaafsma gave much to the yearbook in the field of photography, and Advisor Clyde Geerlings' faithful guidance was of untold worth. The people who served under the various editors held such a position that without them no book could have been produced.

The finished product, the MILESTONE for 1949, was due to the untiring efforts and cooperation shown by the MILESTONE staff.

Pallette and Masque

Pallette and Masque, under the direction of Professor Edward S. Avison, has spent a busy and productive year developing the all-important backstage organization by building and equipping the new Little Theater on the fourth floor of the Science Building.

The grunts and groans of prodigious workers heard around the Science Building in October issued from P. and M. workers who were hauling lumber and supplies to the carpenters on the third floor. A considerable amount of hard work formed the basis of the playshop as it appears today.

The theater, P. and M.'s first permanent home, consists of an auditorium with a possible seating capacity of one-hundred and thirty people, a glass-enclosed control booth for lighting, a traditional Green Room, practice stage, theater office, and work and storage areas assigned to the various crews. Students are using the embryo recording studio to perfect voice techniques. Such extra equipment as a piano, telephone, and speaker system between backstage and control booth improve working conditions and morale.

Even though the dramatics group was very busy preparing the new theater, play production was not entirely null. In the midst of carpentry and painting, students and friends viewed "The Boor" by Anton Chekov; "The Man in the Bowler Hat" by A. A. Milne; and "The Powers That Be" by Sara S. and E. Clayton McCarty. Douglas Cameron and Raymond Martin assisted in direction.

Even before the last curtain rang down on the one-act plays, Douglas Cameron started rehearsals on "The Late Christopher Bean," a three-act comedy by Sidney Howard. "Chris Bean" was seen in January, and with this production, Saturday matinees were inaugurated. With exams over, the morality play, "Everyman," was cast and went into rehearsal with Mr. Avison directing.

That any group could accomplish building a theater, and produce three one-act plays at the same time is remarkable in itself, but P. and M. didn't stop there. The Eickelberg-Kennedy musical comedy, "Washington Conference," needed setting and lights, so an always-ambitious group willingly helped with the Student Council project. Special mention is extended to Alfred Arwe and Adrian Bos

P.&M.'s new playshop on the fourth floor of the Science building.

Pallette and Masque

for their planning and installation of the lighting equipment. James Bennett as stage manager, Jean Woodruff and Olga Kilian as make-up chief, Richard Leonard as head of the properties division, and Anne Cousins and Martin Mepyans as supervisors of the business staff all contributed in assuring the success of this year's plays.

Not only has P. and M. been active in campus life, but the demand for its services are increasing in Holland and the surrounding vicinity.

P. and M. actors and backstage crews found it is helpful to observe other groups in action. Members went to Detroit in November to see "Summer and Smoke" by Tennessee Williams, and "The Medea" starring Judith Anderson.

The staging of plays has been made more effective through the cooperation of the Art department. Better-dressed shows have resulted from their set designs. Costume plates were made for "Everyman" to facilitate wardrobe selection.

A display of blueprints of the theater, photographs of plays, and costume and scenery designs were sent to Washington, D. C., in December to the conference of the American Educational Theater Association.

President Douglas Cameron led Pallette and Masque throughout the year, assisted by Vice-President Irene Heemstra, and Secretary-Treasurer Anne Cousins.

Under the capable leadership of Professor Avison, Pallette and Masque has advanced along the path of service, passing important milestones in its life. "The man behind the man behind the footlights" has come into his own, and with a theater of its own and a promising organization, P. and M. is planning many more plays of high caliber.

Costumes and makeup are put on behind the scenes.

Honorary

Alcor

To have the outstanding honor of becoming a member of Alcor is a cherished ideal of every Hope Co-ed. Every May Day, junior girls who have met the requirements of excellent scholarship, active participation in campus activities, and high character are tapped into this senior women's honor society.

Alcor meets once a month at the home of one of its patronesses, Miss Laura Boyd and Miss Metta Ross, or at Gilmore Cottage as the guest of the faculty advisor, Miss Emma Reeverts. In the past year, the society has seen the presentation of some of the best plays, such as "Ethan Frome."

Under the direction of Carolyn Ingham, president, Alcor performs many worthwhile activities for the students. On Tuesday nights, Alcor girls visit each women's dormitory to appease the ever-abundant appetites. The society offers pleasant moments of relaxation and social life to all who drop in for a snack at the Alcor "Coffee," held once a month in Voorhees Lounge. This afternoon snack attracts students and faculty members who greatly appreciate

"that moment of relaxation." The selling of stationery and picture postcards featuring pictures of campus scenes was a new attempt which was met with approval by all students.

Each year, a scholarship is awarded to the sophomore girl who has the highest scholastic standing in her class. This is a parting gift from the organization. All other profits are presented to the school in the form of a gift.

Alcor looks to the highest ideals of campus life and stands united in Cooperation, Loyalty, and Service to Hope College.

The Blue Key's biggest project

Blue Key

The Hope Chapter of Blue Key began the current year with a membership of ten men from the Senior class. Two men were added at the beginning of the first semester.

The men of Blue Key began work on their projects even before the official opening of the school year. Owen Koeppe headed the staff which produced the Student Guide; the result was an attractive and accurate booklet. Howard Koop and Jack Tirrell were in charge of the football programs, which were sold at all of the home games. Later in the year, Roger Kempers was in charge of the basketball programs which were distributed without charge at the games.

Once again the largest project was the Blue Key Book Store, which, this year, handled the bulk of the textbooks and supplies for students and faculty. The men of Blue Key did their best to provide efficient and reasonable service throughout the year.

A definite decision has not been made concerning the use of the profits which were realized from the various projects. Last year the chapter gave three thousand dollars to the college for the purpose of purchasing new books for the library. Each year the Blue Key's worthwhile contribution is made to the college.

Vergil Dykstra and Bud Ridder ably represented the Hope Chapter at the Sixth Biennial National Blue Key Convention, which was held in Chicago in December.

Throughout the year, monthly dinner meetings were held, at which the men enjoyed fellowship and discussed their business activities. In the spring a banquet was held, at which the members for next year were formally received.

Maintenance

The neat grounds and freshly painted buildings which meet the eyes of Hope students in the Fall are the result of much thoughful attention and diligent care on the part of Hope's maintenance crew.

These men, under the able supervision of Frank Lighthart, are responsible for the upkeep of all school property, and are the forces behind the scenes. For it is the maintenance crew which paints the walls, cleans the floors, repairs electrical fixtures, trims hedges, and performs the thousand and one odd tasks which arise during the course of a day. Perhaps a good classification of the maintenance man is that he is indeed "a jack of all trades" for the type of work demanded of these men is varied and plentiful.

The maintenance crew swells its ranks during the school year by enlisting the aid of students. Each year, members of the student body work with this group, furthering the work which finds its culmination in a campus of which students can be proud.

This year, the maintenance crew has on its calendar a task which will add immeasurably to the beauty of Van Raalte Hall, and contribute to the welfare of faculty and students alike. This will be the installation of fluorescent lighting. The lighting is being given to the school by Hope's Chapter of the Blue Key National Honor Fraternity.

The role played by the maintenance men at Hope is a major one, and it is due to their perseverance and diligence that year after year our campus improves and grows more beautiful.

Dining Hall Workers

Since Hope's enrollment increased by leaps and bounds after the war, many things have changed on the campus, and Hope's dining halls are no exception.

The dining hall workers are a vital part in college life. This pertains especially to the out-of-town students who eat at either Temple or Voorhees Dining Halls. Mr. Rein Visscher is director of both eating establishments.

Temple Dining Hall employs forty-two college students and fourteen regular help, and Voorhees Hall maintains a staff of eighteen college people and seven full-time employees.

To see to it that every person is served, Temple has two people serving as head waiters and one head waitress, and Voorhees has one head waitress. Walter Boerman and Clayton Van Hall are head-waiters and Mrs. Marie Languis is head-waitress at Temple while Betty Weaver is serving as head-waitress at Voorhees.

Others who work in the dining halls include waiters, dishwashers, cooks, those who set the tables, and others who prepare the salads and the fancy trimmings.

Even with the large amount of students who eat at the halls three times a day, and the large amount of work entailed in preparing a meal, the dining hall workers are always ready and willing to do their work cheerfully. Their day is a busy one and the work necessitates two shifts of cooks and kitchen help at both of the college dining halls.

Students who have worked in the dining halls, and have become acquainted with the operation of these two places, know that it takes cooperation and a willing attitude to make it a success. Imagine, if you can, counting out over three hundred knives, forks and spoons, to say nothing of plates and glasses in Temple dining hall.

Although there is a lot of work and the work is not so easy, the dining hall workers accept their responsibility in a cheerful manner.

The dinners are always delicious

Somebody will make a good husband

Men's Glee Club

Spirited by the return of twenty-two members of the 1948 club and the prospect of an Eastern tour in the Spring, the 1949 version of the Men's Glee Club began rehearsals immediately after the opening of school in September. Under the baton of the able and popular Professor Cavanaugh, whose glee clubs have been perennial successes in the past, the task of learning and perfecting the 1949 concert program was begun with zest.

A full concert by the glee club includes approximately twenty numbers, which are about evenly divided between the sacred and the secular. Included in the sacred group this year were an antiphonal anthem by Palestrina, a Russian liturgical chant, a negro spiritual, the "Ave Maria" by Schubert, and Brahms' moving anthem, "How Lovely is Thy Dwelling Place." The secular numbers were equally varied, including a comic satire on the various schools of the opera, a Jugo-Slav folk-song, a serenade, Friml's "March of the Musketeers", a medley of college songs, and the near-classic "Dry Bones." The glee club concludes each concert with the Hope College Alma Mater Hymn.

On March twenty-eight, the club left on a two-week tour that took them across New York state and into New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Most of the tour centered around the churches in the New York City area. In addition to the church concerts, the group appeared in various high schools, at Vassar College, and at the New Brunswick Seminary.

Both before and after the tour, various appearances were made by the glee club in and around Holland, including the annual joint concert with the Women's Glee Club at Tulip Time. With these appearances in mind, the Men's Glee Club chalks up another successful season in its history.

Women's Glee Club

The Women's Glee Club has for many years played an important role on Hope's Campus. The beauty of music is a never ending delight, and the Women's Glee Club has always presented the students with excellent programs.

Under the direction of Mrs. W. Curtis Snow, the Glee Club has had one of its most active years. A new precedent was made this year with the advent of a Western tour. Prior to this time, an Eastern tour was the culmination of much practice and effort on the part of the members and director. However, a greatly expanded music program enabled both the Men's Glee Club and the Women's Glee Club to travel this season. The result was that thirty-three ambassadors of good-will left on a Western tour the thirtieth of March.

The itinerary extended into the Mid-Western states of Wisconsin, Illinois, and Indiana, and audiences in these states were thrilled by the beauty of song wherever the Glee Club performed. To add to the charm of the concerts, organist Frances Rose, and pianist Alicia Van Zoeren played special solos during the intermissions.

After their return from the trip, the Glee Club was active in participating in various concerts in Holland and the immediate area.

The contribution this organization has made during this year, and past years, will always be remembered for its loveliness and technical artistry. Such music is a source of inspiration to all who listen.

Although modern music is also sung, the Hope College Madrigal Singers devote most of their time to the study of English madrigals of the seventeenth century. The music is unaccompanied and designed especially for a small informal group. It is especially valuable in teaching vocal independence and sight-singing.

The Madrigal Singers appeared at the Christmas vesper, and gave a formal recital in the chapel, in addition to more informal appearances. They enjoyed a beach party in the fall.

The group was under the direction of Miss Jantina Holleman, assistant professor of music. It is with an enviable record that the Musical Arts Club is proud to be one of the many clubs on campus, and with a spirit of a successful season it is striving for an even better one next year.

The Musical Arts Club, composed of music students who seek to widen their interest in music, serves a two-fold purpose on the campus.

It sponsors several all-school programs such as the Christmas Vesper Service given in December, when proceeds are donated to the Red Cross, and the School Song Contest conducted in the Spring. Also, all ushers for the musical events on campus are procured through Musical Arts.

Besides the regular meetings throughout the year, an outstanding event was the trip to Grand Rapids where members of the club were the guests of the Calvin College Musician's guild. Several Hope students took part in the evening program.

Hope College Band

The College Band, under the baton of Mr. Morrette Rider, is composed of forty-five members and appeared at all home football games. The band also accompanied the team to the Kalamazoo game. Half-time band shows featured such subjects as the presidential election, the return of Hope College Alumni, and various salutes to Hope's worthy football foes.

The band was also heard at home basketball games, many local parades, and festivals. During the concert season, the band fulfilled a cultural function by presenting three concerts. The first of these was given in a January student assembly; the second was an evening concert in March. The season ended in May with an outdoor concert under the campus pines. Special features in the band programs were brass and woodwind ensembles. Instrumental groups, composed of band and orchestra members, appeared on more than forty programs during the school year.

Hope College Orchestra

The Hope College Orchestra was organized in September, 1947, and since that time the membership has increased to more than fifty pieces of well-balanced instruments. During the past year this group was heard in three evening concerts in the Chapel, and, in addition, accompanied two performances of the "Messiah." Also, a matinee concert was presented for the Woman's Literary Club.

Miss Hazel Paalman, voice instructor, and Prof. Milton Johnston, piano instructor, appeared with the orchestra as soloists. Miss Paalman featured songs by Wagner and Schubert at the November concert, and Mr. Johnston performed the Tschaïkovsky First Piano Concerto as a special feature for the May concert. In collaboration with the art department, the orchestra, under the direction of Morrette Rider, staged a most interesting exhibit-concert. The performance featured the Moussorgsky "Pictures At An Exhibition," in which art students painted their impressions of the music.

Chapel Choir

The Hope College Chapel Choir, an organization of eighty-five voices, led in almost all the daily chapel services this past year, and on special days presented suitable choral anthems. A full-length program of sacred and secular music was presented for a spring concert on April twenty-seven, and the program was repeated in Muskegon, Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids later in the school year.

During the first semester the choir presented Handel's Messiah. It was augmented by excellent soloists, accompanied by the orchestra, organ and piano. Many students and faculty members wished to participate and joined the choir in the rendition. This oratorio took place in December, with Professor Cavanaugh directing the event. This year the choir was outstanding in all its performances.

Under the capable guidance and able direction of Miss Hazel Paalman, an invaluable musical foundation was procured by the choir members. It is because of her ability and the projection of the goal of producing good voices that Miss Paalman's students are trained in basic voice techniques. The choir is composed entirely of Hope students, and its choral selections were of an exceptionally high caliber this year.

The officers of the group for the year 1948-49 were Russell Norden, president; Eleanor Short, secretary; Elizabeth Cookman and Mary Vander Ley, librarians.

Inter-Fraternity Council

The governing body of all the fraternities on campus is the Inter-Fraternity Council. As the fraternities are large in membership, and it is often difficult to arrive readily at a conclusion on matters pertaining to inter-fraternity affairs, it has been found expedient to maintain a central council.

The Inter-Fraternity Council is comprised of two members from each fraternity on campus, and is sponsored by Dean Milton Hinga. The ten fraternity representatives and Dean Hinga discuss the various questions which arise during the year. The conclusions they reach are then relayed back to the various groups represented. It has generally been accepted in the past to have the fraternities abide by the decisions reached by the council.

Among its many duties, the council must supervise rushing, bidding, and initiating. These, in addition to the minor questions arising constantly, fill the agenda.

Another important capacity served by the council is that of organizing and supervising inter-fraternity sports. Basketball, bowling, softball, and other forms of recreation play an important role in the fraternity activities for the year.

The Inter-Fraternity Council has been likened to the Congress of the United States in so far as the men of the council are representing their fraternities, and make the laws and regulations governing the societies. This is true, for the fraternity representatives are just that. The decisions they reach are judged to be the best for all concerned.

It is essential that harmony and cooperation exist between the fraternities and the administration. In his capacity as sponsor of the council, Dean Hinga provides the contact needed with the administration. As compact groups, united because of common interests, and with fellowship as their prime object, the fraternities can do much good for Hope College. The fraternities can benefit from the administration, and the administration can benefit from the fraternities. It is through the medium of the Inter-Fraternity Council that these things can be accomplished.

Dean Hinga's advice is highly valued

Pan-Hellenic Board

The Pan-Hellenic Board is comprised of two elected members from each of the sororities on campus. With Miss Laura Boyd and Miss Emma Reeverts, Dean of Women, as directors, the board solves various important issues. The board makes the rules, forms the policies of all the sororities on campus, and discusses many other problems which arise during the year.

The decisions of Pan-Hellenic are of immediate importance to each sorority. In the beginning of the school year it is this body that determines the date of the Round Robin Tea, and publishes rules pertaining to rushing and bidding sophomore and transfer students. Also, a list of girls desiring to belong to a sorority is given to each sorority president. This is a proof against unconsciously eliminating a girl from becoming a sorority member.

At any time questions may be brought before the board and this group uses every means possible in finding a solution to the situation. One problem which is being worked out by the group is the method of selecting pledges for the various sororities. This particular instance involves all the sororities and it is with the idea of making the pledging procedure more uniform that Pan-Hellenic is seeking an acceptable compromise. The board already has discussed this problem and has received suggestions from each sorority pertaining to the methods now in existence.

Pan-Hellenic occasionally meets with the Inter-Fraternity Council to discuss items that concern both the men and the women's socities.

Under the capable guidance of President Jean Brunstetter, the Pan-Hellenic Board worked efficiently in serving the sororities during the past year.

Delta Phi

An eager team of Delphians responded to the opening whistle of the first semester and under the able supervision of first term coach Barbara Van Dyke, assistant coach Lois De Kleine, and score keeper Irene Heemstra the group looked forward to a successful year of play and competition. The first opponents were the rainy weather and sand man at the traditional fall house party. But the Delphi came through the victors with enough energy left to begin redecoration of their headquarters.

Teamwork reigned supreme in daily practices for the "Round Robin Tea." After a hilarious informal initiation, the time of the reserves was over, and all became full members of the varsity at an inspiring formal ceremony.

Time for relaxing and recuperating was called for Christmas vacation. The Christmas tea and an early morning breakfast at the Dutch Mill helped to achieve this end. During this breathing spell the varsity was handed to the new coach, Amy Koning, with Ruth Koop as assistant and Olga Kilian keeping the score book.

The new year began with each varsity member working for a successful game aboard the "Delphi Showboat," the winter formal party. Stars for the evening were those who took part in the original musicale.

At the half-time all those teammates who had held the defense against exams and first semester worries gathered together for another house party at the home of Head Coach Amy Koning. Sleep was outplayed and fun took the lead.

Valentine's week-end found an increase in the varsity as each member added a substitute and took time at Miller's Barn for an informal date night. Continuing a full second term schedule, the team donned the green and proved its skill on St. Patrick's Day by making the annual potluck its usual success. As the season was drawing to a finish, Delphi added an all-day event at Spring Lake to the schedule. An afternoon of play, climaxed by a banquet and program, brought another victory to the Delta Phis.

Write ups concerning joint meetings with the Sorosites, Knicks and Cosmos, and the All-College Sing spelled a successful year.

The varsity gathered for its last game of the year at the lake shore. For many it portrayed the final whistle, and sadly the seniors left for the harder play of life. But remaining teammates eagerly anticipated another year of Delta Phi.

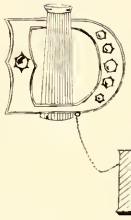
Delphis hold informal initiation



Kappa Beta Phi

Kappa Beta Phi would like to share with you a Dorian Revival of this past year's events. Having made its debut in 1921, the performance has grown better with every succeeding year. The house lights of the Present dim and the stage lights of the Past grow brighter as the curtain rises on the First Act.

The setting is the fall of '48, and director at the time was Betty Harris, who was ably assisted by Betty Ann Koch. Script writer was Esther Schmidt and co-financers were Bea Folkert and Peg Moerdyke. The First Scene recalls a gala house party held during the opening week of school at the cottage of Dorian Mary Kooyers.

Dorian Betty Harris, with her handy camera, captured the high-lights of those two eventful days which were reproduced in a set of hilarious snapshots.

The Second Scene reveals a show within a show. It's the "Round Robin Tea" with Dorians presenting a musical skit for the entertainment of all new sophomores and prospective pledges. All pledges looked forward to "Slave Week" — or rather to the end of "Slave Week" — and all masters agreed that the bargains in the slave market were better this year than ever before. Following informal ceremonies, the more serious and impressive formal initiation took place in the sorority room.

With the added stars in the program, the Third Scene discloses the dawn of Homecoming when all Dorians and their Alumnae gathered together for an early morning breakfast at the Dutch Mill restaurant. Then the Dorians attended the annual Homecoming parade to add to the already overflowing college spirit. Next stop was the afternoon football game which the Dorians witnessed as a group in traditional manner. With the coming of Thanksgiving, the First Act comes to a close and all unanimously agree, it was a fine beginning.

The Second Act follows shortly with Director Joan Wilson taking over and Esther Schmidt assisting. Beth Thomson becomes script writer and Bea Folkert and Peg Moerdyke remain co-financers. The First Scene takes place at Christmas-time when all gathered for a holiday party at the home of alumna Eleanor Van Dahm. Dorians played Santa Claus to a family of twelve in Kentucky and packed boxes of food, toys, and clothes to be sent to them.

The Second Scene introduces the New Year and the winter formal, "Continental Carousel", which was held in the Continental Room of the Hotel Pantlind in Grand Rapids. A delicious dinner party was made especially enjoyable by the company of select guests.

St. Valentine's Day is the romantic scene of the Second Act which adds a bit of sentiment to the show. A holiday party was held in the Dorian room with refreshments served after the "hearty" program.

The Third Act of the Kappa Beta Phi Revival was staged from March to June, and included such unforgettable scenes as the Dorian contribution to the Penny Carnival, participation in the All-College Sing, and the spring informal party. And so the curtain comes down again on another successful production which certainly has been rated one of the very best in the hearts of the Dorian Troupers.

Sibs hold a breakfast meeting

Toussaint and Brunsting go "Dutch"

Sibyls gathered together at a jolly slumber party on the eve of Convocation at Cool Edge Inn on Macatawa shores. Singing and laughter filled the greater part of the day, but plans were also discussed enthusiastically for the forthcoming year.

In the first special event of the year, the "Round Robin Tea," Sibyls presented the latest in the entertainment field, "Television," in which they sponsored a broadcast for hopefuls.

Beautiful weather accompanied the "four-mile" hike, on which twenty-two members were cordially welcomed by their new "sisters."

Yet, to seal the bond of friendship, a formal initiation was solemnly held. Each new member was presented with a Sib Rose and oath, and received the pin of an old member as symbols of Sibyl allegiance.

Late in October came "Homecoming," at which the current members greeted their faithful alumnae at the yearly Brunch. Amid much reminiscence and enlightenings, Sibyllines did manage to eat a little.

"Life abundant" is one of the aims of the Sibyls and they started the new year pursuing it. The year was begun with an "Old Times Review" at the Rowe Hotel at which the Sibyls dined and relaxed to their heart's content.

In the springtime, all the Sibs were kept busy. They gathered together once more for "the development of the body." A fun-packed day in the out-of-doors was climaxed by playing games.

Never to be forgotten were the joint meetings held with other sororities and fraternities. Sybils found them to be enlightening and enriching.

Ends must come to all good things! But that is not so with all Sibyls. For, when the seniors graduated, they had already met and had become re-acquainted with members of the Alumnae at the spring tea.

So, "farewells were softly spoken" on the shores of Macatawa at the overnight house party. Fourteen seniors left the ranks. New officers were chosen to lead Sibyls through the tests of the new year. To their high ideals of purity of the mind, body, and spirit, the Sibyls repledged themselves.

Sorosis have an informal chat at a formal party

Pledge Van Kolken takes the oath

Sigma Sigma

Sigma Sigma, the first established sorority on campus, looks back upon a year of teamwork, and the score is marked with signs of success and fun.

Sophomores were entertained in typical French style at the "Round Robin Tea." Bids having been accepted, the door was opened to new pledges at an after-church supper. The following week, the pledges masqueraded and were entertained most informally, after which they were sold quite inexpensively as slaves. Formal initiation held the accustomed dignity and impressiveness as each pledge partook in the lighting of her candle from the Sigma Sigma Crest.

The Alumnae joined in a Homecoming luncheon at the Tulip Room in the Warm Friend Hotel. Memories of former days joyously came to life. Following the luncheon, all Sorosites attended the Homecoming football game, and proudly displayed the traditional chrysanthemums and Sigma Sigma colors.

December was a perfect month for Sorosis as guests were entertained at the Pantlind Hotel in Grand Rapids. "Festival Airs" permeated the evening in the true spirit of Christmas and in the spirit of the "Gold and White." The Christmas Tea and literary meeting crept into the hearts of all Sorosites. As carols were sung in the candle-lighted room, feelings of united ties ran through each member, and each wished the other a happy holiday.

Sorosites gathered at the American Legion Country Club as the fleeting spirit of Dutch Treat Week passed. This was Valentine date night for that one and only.

As Spring approached, fullest efforts were put forth for participation in the All-College Sing. The Sorosites proved that their traditional harmony in spirit was surpassed only by their harmony of voice as "Wiegenlied" was rendered.

The informal spring party and the traditional Senior Graduation Breakfast were the highlights of the Spring adventure. By meeting with other sororities and fraternities, Sigma Sigma was able to live up to another ideal, that of friendship beyond its circle.

Since its beginning in 1906, Sigma Sigma has stood for strength and honor, and at the end of another year, Sorosites are still found to be willing, solicitous, and trustworthy — working and playing together as a team.

Theta Gamma Pi

Spending a few moments in the library one day, the Thesaurians discovered a book bearing the title "Theta Tales," 1948-49. A glance was given first to the Table of Contents and it was found rather intriguing. "A Douglas Cottage" was the scene of the Theta houseparty. It was a lovely cottage, picturesque and roomy, and so conducive for sleep or for talk. Despite food and fun, plans were laid for the next chapter, "Round Robin Tea." Everyone worked together for the interest of this chapter, with Betty De Ryke as the author, Kay Ponstine as her assistant, Shirley De Boer as literary editor, and Bernie Nichols handling the copyright fees.

"Weary Bones" heads the next chapter as Thetas and their pledges rounded the marshes on the "four-mile hike." Shrieks filled the air as an occasional snake was encountered, but "all's well that ends well," and this chapter was concluded as barbecues, hot chocolate, ice cream, and cherry pie were enjoyed.

The next chapter went to the deep South for "Slave Week." Slaves roamed over the aristocratic mansions of Voorhees and Van Vleck and the suites of the old members took on "new looks" as a result of much scrubbing. The little maids then gathered in the spacious dining room for formal initiation, receiving corsages of white carnations as they repeated the pledge of loyalty.

"Outweighed, Outplayed" brings to mind that exciting Homecoming week-end. A delicious breakfast was enjoyed with the alumnae at the Dutch Mill restaurant, and an important announcement was made concerning the new Alumnae organization.

"Stars" was the heading of the chapter which brought back memories of the Christmas meeting with the alumnae. At that time the alumnae presented a lovely gift to the present Thetas.

"Snowmen," hmmmm — must be winter, and that means the Theta informal party. All were glad when the paragraph meaning Country Club and food was finally read. Then there came a literary paragraph with the opera "Othello," and the chapter ended as the Thetas promenaded under the direction of Mr. Claude Ketchum.

"Mystery Melodies" then began issuing from the sorority room as thoughts of the All-College Sing came to mind. Everyone dreamed of "Just a Cottage Small" as Kay Ponstine became author, Hazel Vande Woude, her assistant, and Eunice Heinen paid the publisher's fees.

Then came the closing chapters with the spring party and graduation. The senior characters Hazel, Kay, Leona, Minnie, and Eunice left the plot of "Theta Tales." Friendship, Devotion, and Service have filled the pages of this book and the hope is that future Thetas will be able to write "Finis" with as great a flourish.

Freshmen girls gather for a "gab-fest" in West Hall

Alpha Sigma Alpha

Another year has gone by; another group of talented young freshmen has entered Hope College. The freshmen girls are especially proud of their sorority, Alpha Sigma Alpha. All the informal meetings which were held in West Hall lounge, and the gay parties proved to be of value. All the freshmen girls have made many new friends, received good companionship, and have had many happy times together because of Alpha Sigma Alpha.

The group has been especially active in many of the campus activities of the college. The first undertaking was the float which was designed for the Homecoming parade. Just as any other sorority or fraternity on the campus, an Alumni breakfast was held. The only missing factor was the lack of any Alumni; however, fun prevailed. The annual All-College Sing was a challenge to the musical talents which reigned high in the group.

Under the able leadership of efficient officers, Alpha Sigma Alpha was organized. It was because of the ability of the officers that the meetings were so very interesting and worthwhile. To the first semester president, Doris Adams, the credit is due for the smooth beginning meetings which were the most difficult. Under her able leadership Alpha Sigma Alpha was started in the right paths. Acknowledgement is also due to the sophomores who helped in the beginning of the year. All the officers were most capable and their leadership was very satisfactory. To these officers and to the advisor, Miss Norma Wolcott, instructor in Spanish, the freshmen girls give their deepest appreciation.

One of the most successful events of the year was the informal party which was held on January fifteenth at the Women's Literary Club. The title given to the party was the "Sock Hop." Naturally, the theme of the party centered around "socks." Not only were the coats checked at the door, but also the shoes. Everyone spent the evening in "sock feet." The formal party was also a grand success. It was held on the twenty-ninth of April at the Women's Literary Club.

It was the cooperation which was received from the freshmen girls that made all the activities of Alpha Sigma Alpha successful this year. The past year has truly been grand. It not only has been of benefit to its members, but also to the college as a whole. It has been a full year, and an active one. Working together has brought the freshmen girls closer to each other, and many friendships have been gained.

Even the Old White Hen was "relieved" after Homecoming

Arcadian

Arcadians began the year with a rip-roaring time at Tunnel Park the seventeenth of September. This was a stag party with plenty of food, songs, and laughter, climaxed with a campfire song-fest on the beach.

Chi Phi Sigma then settled down to more serious duties, such as choosing additional members from the vast store of new Hope-ites and building the "Old White Hen" for Homecoming.

This year Arcadians experienced their first Alumni Breakfast at Homecoming time. This seemed a bit unusual to some because the fraternity has only been in existence for a period of two and one-half years. However, there is a continual growing list of frat brothers who are no longer on the campus. Four of the Alumni attended the breakfast along with forty hungry members.

Regular elections were held in January. David Dykstra succeeded Ted Flaherty in the office of president, Marvin Kragt replaced Floyd Goulooze as vice-president, Elton Bruins was elected secretary in place of Walter Studdiford, and Bill Flaherty was elected to the treasurer's post, which had been vacated by President Dykstra.

In January, the annual winter formal party took place. The theme was "Sentimental Journey" and the Grand Central Station was the Morton House in Grand Rapids. Everyone agreed that the party was a huge success and its memories shall linger long in the hearts of all present.

A special program of interest was the presentation of motion picture programs called the World Adventure Series. This project rapidly became a regular part of campus and community life. All proceeds were used for the purpose of buying CARE packages, about thirty of which have been purchased.

Arcadians enjoyed taking part in many other programs and activities in the community as well as at the college. Representatives participated in inter-fraternity sports, May Day sports events, and the wearing of "de blauwe Hollandse Broek" in the Tulip Time parade. Taking part in the street scrubbing has been an annual event for the Arcadians since 1947. And just like many other Hope-ites, fraternity men were often found tramping the traditional old "four-mile hike" along Black River on a nice Sunday afternoon.

One of the annual important events on Hope's campus is the All-College Sing. The Arcadian fraternity worked many hours before the rendition of "Winter Song," and efforts were fruitfully awarded when the prized trophy as a symbol of first-place honor was presented to Director Kenneth Leestma.

Chi Phi Sigma has experienced a most successful and enjoyable year. Fraternity ties have bound the men in the true spirit of brotherhood, and benefits have been derived by the men, by the campus, and by the community.

Phi Kappa Alpha

This past school year of 1948-49 can be marked as another very successful year for Phi Kappa Alpha. In true Cosmopolitan tradition, the fraternity ranked high on the campus, both in scholastics and in athletics.

The Cosmopolitans made a very fine start in the beginning of the new year by pledging a fine and capable group of young men. The officers for the fall term set a very lively pace with Timothy Harrison as president, and Clayton Van Hall assisting him in the capacity of vice-president. The secretarial work was ably handled by Allison Van Zyl. Robert Becksfort served as treasurer for the year. Mr. Clyde Geerling, director of Hope College Publicity, again consented to serve as sponsor of the society.

The rushing season was climaxed with initiations, both informal and formal. The new members gave their solemn vow to the time-honored principles of Friendship, Truth, and Progress. The first term proved to be a very busy one for members of Phi Kappa Alpha, for they entered wholeheartedly into the custom of initiating freshmen, voicing yells as a unit at the varsity football games, and enjoying many informal parties, informal meetings, and other worthwhile literary activities.

Rounding the turn in the backstretch, the winning pacers were Clayton Van Hall for wielding the gavel, George Zuidema as vice-president and program chairman, and Harlan Failor as secretary. At the beginning of the new semester, the Cosmopolitans took a "Sentimental Journey" to the Occidental Hotel in Muskegon. This winter's formal party was a true shining success for Cosmos and their guests.

Cosmopolitans again acquired many high ratings in the inter-fraternity activities. The "B" League basketball team was honored in winning the Inter-Fraternity basketball championship. The All-College Sing was another highlight of the season with the fraternity giving a very fine showing of excellent harmony.

The fraternity elevated itself to a high position this year for in the latter part of February a third floor apartment in one of the downtown buildings was secured for the fraternity's use. A great deal of diligent work soon transformed it into a very hospitable lounge. The lounge became a definite binding force in bringing the fraternity members into closer cooperation.

Phi Kappa Alpha featured its colors in truly championship fashion for the homestretch. Spring sports were entered with a great deal of vigor. Cosmos also gave their all to the May Day activities. The Spring Party proved to be a fine finis to the year's activities. A most enjoyable meal coupled with top entertainment provided a happy conclusion. Thus, another year in the Cosmopolitan history can be filed away with fond memories. Phi Kappa Alpha's fervent hope is that the future can bring as much joy as this year has afforded.

The nineteenth year of Emersonian on Hope's campus was another Milestone in the principles of Love, Honor, Freedom, and Success. The year's activities started rolling with a very successful and enjoyable rushing season under the guidance of David Hoogerhyde as president. After quest night and informal initiation, pledging was climaxed by the impressive, time-honored, formal initiation ceremony. Mr. James Prins served very capably as faculty advisor throughout the year. Homecoming provided the opportunity for active members and alumni space to renew friendships at the alumni banquet. The Emmie Stag Smoker at the Marquee was another high point of the fall term. The Thursday evening before Christmas was the scene of the annual Christmas party and dorm caroling. The "Emmie" Santa, arriving at the girls' dorms, was warmly welcomed.

Ushering in the new year, the winter term officers took over the reins of Emersonian. Russell Norden served as president, with Craig Van Zanten officiating as vice-president. A varied and interesting group of meetings was planned. On the evening of January twenty-one, Emmies and their guests, after dining, gazed upon "Emersonian Portraits" at the annual winter formal party held in the V.F.W. Hall in Holland. This was one of those never to be forgotten evenings which are characteristic of Emersonian winter parties. The All-College Sing on March eleven climaxed many hours of hard and diligent practice on "Dream River," which was rendered very capably under the direction of Herbert Ritsema.

Emersonian again, as in the past, was well represented in all intramural sports. Basketball was the center of attraction during the winter term, with baseball and the May Day track meet taking over the spotlight in the spring. Spring vacation ended one of the most successful winter terms in the history of Emersonian and layed the foundation for the spring term.

In the spring a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of, as Emersonians' did, joint meetings with several sororities. The spring party held in May was a fitting climax to the most successful year of Emersonian since the war. As the year drew to a close, those that were completing their college careers looked back on their stay in Emersonian, and looked earnestly into the future with the knowledge that their efforts had paved the way for the advancement of Emersonian to new and more glorious heights.

Omicron Kappa Epsilon

Members of Fraternal Society concluded another highly successful year, the one hundred and fifteenth of its history. The oldest fraternity on Hope's campus, and the sixth oldest Greek-letter fraternity in the United States, proudly took its place of honor in the activities of the past school year.

Guided by the Frater theme "Few and Chosen," actives pledged twenty new members who were enthusiastically initiated into the realms of O.K.E. "Leonidus" was once more exhumed to impress freshmen with the age and sagacity of the organization. Refreshments were served a la carte, with marshmallows for dessert.

Old grads and young pledges sat shoulder to shoulder at the first party of the season, which followed the Homecoming football game in October. The affair, which was again held at the Country Club, proved to be very successful. Formal initiation was conducted in November by first term president Howie Koop, who relinquished the gavel following the ceremony to newly elected president Paul Hinkamp.

Frater Alumni led the way in 1949, and helped the active organization establish itself in the new Club rooms in downtown Holland. Fraters once again scored a first in accommodating their own. The club was completely furnished with the help of local business establishments and furniture houses, and will be maintained until Fraters secure a home of their own.

Highlight of the winter season was the formal party, held in the Louis XV Room of the Rowe Hotel. Ably chaperoned by alumnus, sponsor Don Zwemer, and coach Russ De Vette, the "Frater Supper Club" proved to be an extremely zestful affair.

The annual Washington Day Stag was again held in the Marquee in an atmosphere of tenderloins, alumni, and festive song. An extremely well-thought-out paper on "Bottles" was presented by alumnus John K. Vanden Broek. Three new pledges were welcomed in March, and two joint meetings, one with Sorosis and one with the Emersonians, highlighted the engagements of the month. The annual All-College Sing took place March 11th and Fraternal, ably directed by Don Evers, captured an honorable fourth position. The glee club rendered their version of "Old Man River" by Jerome Kern.

President Hinkamp relinquished the gavel to Don Evers who led the fraternity to a successful conclusion of another year. Highlighted by the fifth Annual Frater Frolics, given three nights in May before enthusiastic audiences, the members and guests closed another party chapter with the spring festivity. The traditional Swan Song concluded year 1948-49 in the history of Omicron Kappa Epsilon.

So passed another season in many; typical, yet outstanding, a season of successes, friendships, and leadership on campus. A dozen seniors left the ranks with assurance of a job well done, and a pledge from actives to keep the sun of the Fraternal crest continually in ascendance.

Kappa Eta Nu

Thirty-nine years ago, a group of men incorporated themselves as the Knickerbocker Literary Society, and in later years they have been known also as the Kappa Eta Nu Fraternity. The purposes for which it was founded were embodied as the rays of a triangle symbolizing the moral, intellectual, and social modes of life.

Welcoming the returning co-eds to the campus with a nocturnal serenade was the first spin of the KHN whirl; conducting joint meetings with the various sororities was another. The "date nights" were interspersed on the social calendar. As usual, the Knickerbockers participated in the All-College Sing, this year giving a rendition of "Meadowland." Climaxing the year of Knickerbocker social events was the "Candyland Carnival," the annual formal winter party held at the Morton House in Grand Rapids. The second semester was topped by the informal spring party which, to those present, will be a source of memories for some time to come.

Knickerbocker teams were in action in all phases of the intramural sports program, and were noted for their tenacity and fine sportsmanship. Twice during the school year the traditional "Black and Blue" colors of pledging became the banners that led prospective members to the fraternity.

The literary meetings and the ever-present business meetings were dutifully and excellently guided by President Phillip Meengs and Vice-President Harold Grissen during the first semester, and by President Warren Eickelberg and Vice-President Roy Walchenbach during the second semester.

The fraternity was proud to have Professor Harold J. Haverkamp as its sponsor. The group is indebted for his aid, encouragement, inspiration, and valuable advice.

Justly proud of its famed and illustrious Alumni, KHN held "Open House" for former members at the Royal Neighbors Hall during Homecoming, and expects by next year to have a well-knit Alumni Association in operation. Plans also are under way to honor those Knickerbockers who gave their lives in World War II defending their ideals.

The Hope College Infirmary became the recipient of three radios purchased by KHN to alleviate the hardships of being ill.

This year has been an outstanding year for Knickerbockers. Led by capable officers, many new bonds of friendships have been fused and many older ones strengthened. To the Senior Knicks, the fraternity bids a cordial "Thank you" for a job well done, and those who leave will give this charge:

"Keep the pledges thou hast made,
Hold them always to thy heart;
Maintain truth, defend thy faith,
From our standards never part."

May Day

May Day is the one event that is remembered and cherished by all because of its beauty and excitement. Classes are adjourned in the middle of the morning, and students prepare for the numerous activities that will continue throughout the day.

Students and faculty members gather on the athletic field in the morning to observe the competition between the girls' teams. These teams are represented by the four classes on campus. There are contests in track, high-jumping, broad-jumping, relays, dashes, baseball, and basketball distant throwing. The sophomore girls gave keen competition in all the varied sports this year, and the close of the morning found them victorious.

After a refreshing lunch, which was consumed with relish on the part of the fairer sex, all prepared to depart to the track grounds on twenty-second street. Here, the robust males displayed their prowess and skill abilities. These teams were composed of men representing the five fraternities on campus, and they competed in relays, high-jumping, broad-jumping, pole-vaulting, javelin throwing, and other sports.

In the evening, a daisy chain formed by the freshmen girls who were attired in pastel formals, threaded their way into the Pine Grove. A throne had been erected especially for the occasion of crowning the queen. The sun, in its full brilliance, just before dropping behind the horizon, played across the lawn. Alcor girls and the previous queen's court took their places, and the ceremonies officially began. A short history of former May Day activities was then related by the Master of Ceremonies, William Hillegonds

The tapping of the junior girls who had been chosen to become members of Alcor, the honorary women's society, took place. Following this came the long-awaited announcement of the six junior girls who had been elected to the queen's court, and finally the announcement of the new queen, Queen Judy, for Hope's Campus.

In the evening a delicious banquet was served at Temple Dining Hall. The queen and her court were given places of honor at the main table. After dinner, a representative of each class welcomed the newly crowned queen, and wished her success and happiness.

At this time special awards were given to students on campus. Among those presented were the Alcor Scholarship Award to Margaret Moerdyke, the Women's Sports Award to the winning sophomore girls, and the men's Sports Award, was awarded to the Fraternal Society for its participation in the days' activities. The Student Council officers for the ensuing year were announced by Queen Judy.

May Day holds a choice place in the book of memories of every Hope-ite. Truly this day is an outstanding Milestone on Hope's Campus.

Hope's Homecoming week-end was one of the best in the school's history. Three perfect days, packed with activities, beckoned to Hope's many alumni who came from all parts of the world to enjoy the festivities held on October 29-31.

Four o'clock Friday afternoon found the banks of Black River lined with eager, anxious students and alumni, awaiting the annual Frosh-Soph pull across the icy waters. The men worked hard and the Frosh "morale boosters" did their best, but the Sophs won the first event of homecoming week-end.

Friday night, in spite of the heavy downpour, a pep rally was held, this year with a new innovation — that of the crowning of the Homecoming Queen. Early in the fall, it was decided that someone other than the May Day Queen should reign for this week-end. Consequently, each class chose two girls as their candidates for this distinction. From this group a committee of students and faculty members made the final selection. Thus, at the pep rally Miss Toni Fredricks, Muskegon Senior, was crowned Homecoming Queen by Gordon Timmerman, with the Misses Dorothy Contant, Lois England, Gwen Kooiker, Doris Koskamp, Molly Ryan, Delpha Siebers, and Mary Van Loo forming her court.

Saturday morning found many of the sororities on campus entertaining their alumni at breakfast, and then everyone rushed downtown to view the parade, which was of exceptional caliber this year. The Freshman class won first prize with their "Cannibalistic" scene and the Cosmopolitan Fraternity came in second with their portrayal of the Old North Church and the midnight ride of Paul Revere, the theme being, "The Britons are coming!"

Yes, "they came, they saw, and they were conquered." Albion was defeated, 33-6, on a warm lazy afternoon before a crowd of several thousand people.

After the game, Hope's alumni gathered in the parlors of Hope Reformed Church for a buffet supper. Guests were present from many different states, and delightful informality plus abundance of chatter and laughter prevailed as friendships were renewed.

On Saturday evening many of the fraternities held special meetings in honor of their alumni. Others spent an enjoyable evening visiting the various dormitories and admiring the decorations. Fairbanks Cottage won first prize among the girls' dorms and T-Dorm captured it for the fellows.

Sunday afternoon's vesper service, which was held in the Chapel, was packed with both alumni and students. An inspiring, relaxing program was presented by the Music Department, — and then it was over, the busy, but enjoyable week-end.

All-College Sing

For the sixth time, the annual All-College Sing has been a great success. This inspiring display of student cooperation and friendly competition has proved a source of delight for all who attend. To see an All-College Sing is to see American youth strikingly portrayed, for all the elements of democratic life are to be found in this contest.

The All-College Sing provides excellent student participation during the school year. Every sorority and fraternity on the campus enters the contest, and one of the rules of the contest is that every group must enter all its members in the contest. In this way, many students have a chance to participate in an event which annually secures for itself a greater prestige on Hope's campus.

The judges for the Sing are chosen from outside of the school. The various groups are rated on several points; tone, interpretation,

TOP: R. Kranendonk, Cosmopolitan; C. Wierenga, Delphi; L. Brunsting, Sibylline.
MIDDLE: M. Voskuil, Dorian; D. Adams, A. S. A.; D. Evers, Fraternal; K. Smouse, Knickerbocker.
BOTTOM: P. Haskin, Sorosis; H. Ritsma, Emersonian; K. Leestma, Arcadian; G. Keizer, Thesaurian.

Delphi Sorority captured the trophy in the women's division technique, selection, direction, and general effect being the main elements.

The Sing is entirely the possession of the students. The groups select their songs, their leaders, and the Sing itself is directed by student chairmen. There are no experts in the Sing; all are amateurs, and the finished product is the result of many hours of practice.

The All-College Sing this year was exceptionally noteworthy in so far as there were ties for first place among both sororities and fraternities. The final decision, however, placed Delta Phi Sorority as first place winner among the sororities, and the Arcadian Society among the fraternities. Second place contestants were Sorosis Sorority, and the Emersonian Fraternity. Gold cups were presented to the winners.

The success of each All-College Sing is dependent upon cooperation, but the greatest single factor contributing to this success is the boundless enthusiasm of the student body. And typical of this enthusiasm was the work and energy put into organizing and directing this year's Sing by co-Chairmen Evie Van Dam and Russ Norden. It is through their work, and the work of hundreds like them, that the All-College Sing has become one of the great highlights of every school year.

Dr. Orr stresses a point

Religious Emphasis Week

Dr. Will W. Orr of Des Moines, Iowa, was the guest speaker for the annual Religious Emphasis Week which was observed from February 7 to 11. Dr. Orr is pastor of the Westminster United Presbyterian Church of Des Moines. During his pastorate there the church has developed into one of the largest organizations in the Middle West. Dr. Orr is especially noted for his excellent youth program which has helped to reach so many of the young people in that area. During past years he and Mrs. Orr have organized an annual summer camp on the Campus of Central College, Pella, Iowa. Dr. Orr has also served as Vice-President of the Bible Institute of Los Angeles. He has been active in studying a possible unification of Reformed and United Presbyterian Churches into a single denomination.

During Religious Emphasis Week, Chapel services were held at ten o'clock in the morning. Besides Dr. Orr's address, there was special music each morning by the Women's Glee Club, The Men's Glee Club, Chapel Choir, Francis Rose at the organ, and a solo by Timothy Harrison. Dr. Orr's daily inspirational messages were entitled "Kneel to be Knighted," "Putting Christianity to Work," "Resources Unlimited," "The Fighting Stars" and "The Sweat of Thy Face."

In addition to the morning services, Dr. Orr had private conferences and talks with students who were interested in Church work and organization, and who had personal problems for which advice was needed. On Tuesday evening Dr. Orr addressed a joint meeting of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. societies. Donald Vandenberg provided special music. The Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. cabinets met at Gilmore Cottage after the service to meet Dr. Orr personally, and to share in the fun created by his clever games and jovial mood.

The "Question Box Meeting" was held on Thursday night with Dr. Orr answering many vital questions pertaining to all phases of life. These questions were sent in by students. The last of the special features, which were centered around Religious Emphasis Week and Dr. Orr, were the prayer meetings which were held at five o'clock in the afternoon in the Chapel basement. The faculty members in charge were: Monday, Dr. Henry Voogd; Tuesday, Mrs. Irwin J. Lubbers; Wednesday, Mr. Edward Wolters; Thursday, Miss Emma Reeverts. Those in charge conducted the entire service which included a short song service, a devotional talk, and a period of sentence prayers.

The origin of Prayer Week or Religious Emphasis Week can be traced back to when Hope College was still in its youth. In 1887 the theme for the week was "The Salvation of Young Men," and the meetings were led by prominent business men from Holland. At that time the services were planned by the Y.M.C.A., as they are now. Since there were few women on campus in 1887 no Y.W.C.A. had been formed as yet. From that time on, Prayer Week has been held every year, usually with one main speaker, but sometimes with as many as five.
